Lewis Orders Coal Miners Back to Work

Action Follows Appeal by Truman

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered striking soft coal miners back to work at once.

The chief of the United Mine Workers wired district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board trimmed the increase to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

President Truman had appealed to Lewis is to get the miners back to work.

Truman invited Lewis to the White House Sunday night and made the request.

The industry and the union have jointly appealed the decision of the wage board. Associates of Lewis have made it plain that he expects the full pay raise will be approved in a day or two.

Lewis' telegram said it will require "a reasonable time" for a decision on the coal pay increase negotiated by Lewis and the industry and then added: "It is my opinion that our industry should be operated during that period and that the best interests of the mineworkers and the public will be best served . . ."

Even before the telegram was made public here, its receipt had been made known by one district union leader, John Basarello, at Pittsburgh.

Basarello said he expected some miners to go back to work on the 4 p.m. shift.

OTTAWA MAY GIVE AID TO WEST COAST ROAD

The federal government is considering making a contribution towards construction of a portion of a Vancouver Island west coast road, R. W. Mayhew, M.P., said today on his return from Ottawa.

Mr. Mayhew said he has informed the government that nobody is very satisfied with the government-subsidized boat service carrying the mail.

"I think it would be good business for the federal government to put its money into something permanent like a road. The boat service never will give complete satisfaction," he said.

Because of the island's growth, Mr. Mayhew said action cannot be postponed.

Not Worried About McCarthy 'Smear' Broadcast Tonight

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (CP)—Governor Adlai Stevenson said today the Republican campaign promises of a "quick and easy end" to the Korean war may have delayed an armistice.

Opening a stretch-drive attack on the opposition, the Democratic candidate for president turned loose scathing criticisms against Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and predicted a Republican smear campaign against himself.

Sen. McCarthy will be heard from 8.30 to 9.00 tonight on the Mutual Broadcasting System, KVI, Tacoma.

At Brockton, Mass., Stevenson said no one knows how soon the Korean war can be brought to an end.

"But what we all know," he said, "is that day cannot be hastened by disunity or by weakness at home.

"I fear that the efforts of the opposition to win votes by promising a quick and easy end to the Korean war may have delayed an armistice, for the Communists see in every sign of weakness a chance to win an advantage. It is a test of will, it is dangerous to appear to falter."

This statement was obviously aimed at Eisenhower, who pledged he would go to Korea himself if elected, in an effort to find ways and means of bringing the conflict to an end.

Today at Philadelphia Eisenhower said he would not be talked out of going to Korea to seek a way to end the war if he is elected president.

"Entirely aside from any partisan thought in my head, if the American people want to make me the executive head of the government for the next four years, I shall go there and consult with the people on their own ground.

"From that purpose, I shall not be deterred by any criticism any partisan wants to bring against me."

Starting a swing through New England, Stevenson noted that Senator Joseph R. McCarthy, Wisconsin Republican, has scheduled a radio-television broadcast tonight on what he has said will be a "carefully-documented history" of Stevenson's activities during the last 17 years.

"Tonight," he said, "you will hear the most magnificent of all smears of all times when the junior senator from Wisconsin tries to save the election for the Republicans."

FINAL DRIVE

ABOARD EISENHOWER SPECIAL IN PENNSYLVANIA, Oct. 27 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower opened his final presidential campaign drive today, starting in Pennsylvania.

Eisenhower's strategy in the closing stages of the campaign appears to be to make the Korean war the foremost issue of his fight for the presidency.

In Detroit Friday night, Eisenhower accused his opposition of having failed to heed expert advice against withdrawing American troops from Korea, and said, "The old administration cannot be expected to repair what it failed to prevent."

He climaxed that speech by promising he will go to Korea himself, if elected, to try to find a way to end the war.

Fans Assured Seattle TV's Future Safe

Manager Unperturbed By McCarthy Threat

Otto Brandt, vice-president and general manager of King Broadcasting Co., Seattle, today gave reassuring word to Victoria owners of television sets that there was no danger of station KING-TV having to close.

Mr. Brandt told The Victoria Daily Times the station was "not the least bit concerned" about a threat by U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy that he intended to apply to the U.S. Federal Communications Commission to have the station's license revoked.

REASSURED

Representatives of two leading television dealers in Victoria said, "That's fine!" when given word of Mr. Brandt's reassurance.

Local dealers estimate about 900 Victoria homes are equipped with television and report that about 30 sets now are being sold monthly in this area. There were only 50 TV sets in Victoria when a survey was made in 1950.

R. Pearce of Kent's Ltd. said the original report about the senator's threat had caused much concern here.

"Television is a booming business in Victoria. If there had been any real danger in this situation it would have really put the kibosh on things."

Walter Fletcher of Fletcher Bros. Ltd. was happy about Mr. Brandt's word, but said he doubted if anyone here had taken Senator McCarthy's threat seriously.

NO RIGHT

Senator McCarthy took the position that the station had no right to censor his speech; refused to alter it and, consequently, did not broadcast. The broadcast was to have been paid for by the Republican party and Senator McCarthy was to have spoken on behalf of Washington Senator Harry P. Cain.

The section of the prepared speech to which the station objected concerned reference to two staff members of political columnist Drew Pearson.

Mr. Brandt said the station was confident it had taken the right and proper course of action. He said he was not prepared to speculate as to whether Senator McCarthy would attempt to carry out his threat or let the matter drop.

Korea Censors Blasted Over Canuck Casualties

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — The Melbourne Herald today criticized military censors in Korea for preventing identification of the British Commonwealth unit engaged in the battle for Little Gibraltar Hill last week.

Describing the censorship as "over rigid," the Herald said editorially:

"The censorship allows the publication of the news that one company of the British Commonwealth division was practically wiped out, but withholds identification of this company.

"Relatives of every British, Australian and Canadian soldier serving in one of the 50-odd companies of the division are exposed to harrowing anxiety.

"The unit involved must have been identified by the enemy forces and there is no point in withholding the information from our own people."

A North Korean communique claimed heavy western front fighting last week at Little Gibraltar Hill, west of Chorwon, resulted in 230 casualties to the 25th Canadian Brigade. A Canadian Army spokesman said the communique was "grossly exaggerated . . . we haven't got the final figures on the casualties for publication yet, but I am certain they are nowhere near that number."

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP)—Punishing Red artillery fire today drove United States marines off the crest of "The Hook" a few hours after they recaptured the western ridgeline in bitter close-quarter fighting.

A marine officer at the front said the marines pulled back from the crest and forward slopes at 8.55 p.m.

There was no indication whether the Chinese Reds moved up to occupy the high ground.

The Reds earlier had attacked with 2,000 men along a three-mile front.

Election Preparedness Asked of Key Liberals

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP)—Key Liberal workers were urged today to embark on "efficient and early" organization in preparation for a federal general election.

The advice was given the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation—the party's high command—by Allan L. Woodrow of Toronto, its acting president, as the council convened in its annual meeting.

The 235-member council is meeting here for two days to review party activities of the last year and draft strategy. It will be followed Wednesday by the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Liberal women.

Prime Minister St. Laurent touched off today's meeting with an address of welcome to the delegates, meeting in closed session.

One of the first items of business of the convention was the adoption of a resolution of "entire confidence" in Mr. St. Laurent and his administration. The resolution also affirmed that the prime minister should continue as party leader through the next election.

In his presidential report, Mr. Woodrow reiterated the prospect of tax cuts to which cabinet members have referred to in the last several weeks.

He said Liberals have a tremendous task in administering plans for improving living standards and at the same time spending heavily on defense.

"This is reflected in the tax rate," he said, "but with a continued increase in national production, one may hope for a reduction in the rate.

"We shall be called upon to defend and hold the well-balanced social gains and have the courage to take new forward steps commensurate with improvements in our economic life.

"That is why I ask you to pass the word along when you go home. Remember a successful election is contingent upon an efficient and early organization.

Aorangi Rides Out 80-Mile Gale in Pacific

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP)—The fringe of a storm churning an area of 1,000,000 square miles in the Pacific Ocean today stabbed at British Columbia's north coast with gale-force winds. Winds of 45 miles an hour were reported in the Queen Charlotte Islands as the storm moved northward. The weather office said there was "every indication" high winds will continue for the next two days.

Despite the area covered by the storm, the United States Coast Guard reported no vessels in distress.

At 10.30 Sunday night the liner Aorangi reported she was bucking winds of more than 50 miles an hour. Her position was given as nearly 800 miles west of the northern California coast.

The 17,491-ton Aorangi sailed Thursday for Australia with nearly 800 persons aboard.

B.C.'s 28th Polio Death at Creston

CRESTON, B.C., Oct. 26 (CP).—A three-year-old child died here today of polio. It was the 28th polio death of the year in British Columbia.

Died Today

W. M. (Billy) Hughes, 88, Australia's Prime Minister in the First World War and only surviving signatory of the treaty of Versailles which sealed the defeat of Germany in that conflict, died today at his home in Sydney, Australia. (See story page 2). C.P. Photo.

CITY CLERK HOPPING MAD

East 'Steals' Ballot System

Copyright Information Provided Toronto Council Credited to Aldermen

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A battle is on between Victoria's city clerk, Frank Hunter and the City of Toronto.

The Toronto Globe and Mail of Friday, carried a photograph of Mr. Hunter's own invention—the Hunter civic ballot system—and said it was "devised by Ald. Grossman and Deputy City Clerk Ed. Norris" of Toronto.

Toronto City Council's legislative committee approved the new composite ballot for civic elections.

"To think the second city of Canada has to stoop so low," declared the usually mild-mannered Mr. Hunter when he saw the "theft" of his work.

"The unmitigated gall of the man to write officially for information—get it completely and then publish and claim credit for it."

He referred to the fact that George A. Weale, Toronto city clerk, wrote last January for full details and got information "worth hundreds of dollars."

Mr. Hunter said he would wire Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto for "an immediate explanation."

"If necessary, I will take legal steps to protect my copyright."

A Victoria businessman in Toronto sent Mr. Hunter the clipping. While all reference to Victoria was removed, the reproduction of the ballot in the paper, contained all the names of civic candidates in the 1951 December civic elections at Victoria.

Mr. Hunter's revolutionary simplified ballot system has gained recognition across the country. It has been in use here for about 20 years.

B.C. municipalities wishing to use the system have been permitted to do so for free by Mr. Hunter. All they pay is $1 a year necessary to keep the copyright alive.

Toronto itself had some mighty fine things to say about the system which has saved Victoria time and money for years as well as provided the famous "progressive count" on election night.

Mr. Hunter stated a city like Toronto could save thousands of dollars with his system.

"I've no intention of letting Toronto get away with it."

Mr. Hunter is considering bringing the matter to the attention of Mayor Claude Harrison and the City Council.

ONLY 4 DAYS LEFT FOR CIVIC VOTERS

Only four more days remain for persons to get their name on the civic voters' list for 1952.

The list is in the city clerk's office at City Hall, closes at 5 Friday. All those wishing to vote in the December 11 civic election, must have their names on the list by the deadline or they cannot vote.

Investigate Oil Slick Off Gabriola Island

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP).—A high-speed R.C.A.F. launch left Patricia Bay today to investigate a 300-yard-wide oil slick near Gabriola Island.

The oil was spotted by the Vancouver fishpacker Betty L. Sunday and later reported to Nanaimo police.

No planes or ships are reported missing.

The launch is equipped with diving gear but the sea is 840 feet deep at the point where the slick was seen. Divers could not go that deep.

New Typhoon Wreaks Havoc In Philippines

MANILA, Oct. 27 (AP)—A raging typhoon—the second in six days—plowed a trail of destruction across the central Philippines today.

Path of the new storm was south of the populous areas levelled by the typhoon which last week took nearly 450 lives.

As the storm lashed Samar, northern Leyte and Masbate Islands this morning and headed over the Sibuyan Sea, its velocity slacked from 150 to 100 miles an hour.

A U.S. B-29 weather plane from Clark Air Force Base, north of Manila, was missing after it flew into the typhoon 200 miles east of Samar Sunday. There were 15 aboard.

The big blow caused extensive crop damage but early reports mentioned no casualties.

Ship Hearing Delayed Again

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP).—Public hearing into the sinking of the Canadian Pacific steamship Princess Kathleen off Alaska Sept. 7 was postponed again today owing to the illness of Mr. Justice Sidney Smith. No new date was set.

Killed in C.N.R. Crash

VANDERHOOF, B.C., Oct. 27 (CP) — One railway repairman was killed and four others injured when a Canadian National Railways work train and freight train collided three miles east of Finmoore early today.

Dead is John Kowal, C.N.R. section hand.

The four injured workmen were not immediately identified.

Python Swallows Leg Of Elephant, Stymied

CALCUTTA, Oct. 27 (AP)—A jungle tug-of-war between a giant python and a calf elephant drew villagers from miles around to a clearing in the Manchik forest reserve near here, tribesmen reported today.

The python had seized the elephant by a hind leg and, "mooring" itself to a tree, started a fight to the death.

The fight see-sawed for hours.

Eventually the python "swallowed" the elephant's leg.

Then came a deadlock. The elephant couldn't move and the reptile couldn't swallow any more.

Villagers stepped in, hacked the python to pieces and freed the elephant.

Seventeen years ago in the same forest, villagers watched a three-day tug-of-war between a giant python and a fully-grown elephant. The outcome was the same that time.

Reds Suffer Beating in Iran Flare-Up

TEHRAN, Iran, Oct. 27 (AP)—Spectators beat up Communist demonstrators who shouted "Down With the Shah" at a sports exhibition Sunday in honor of the Shah's 32nd birthday.

Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi, the country's ruler, witnessed the exhibition at a stadium.

Foreign Minister Hossein Fatemi told reporters that "one or two" suspicious characters were arrested. Unofficial reports put the number at from 25 to 100.

The demonstrators had passed around leaflets asking support for the Tudeh (Comunity) party. The party is outlawed in Iran but its members have been coming into the open.

NANCY HODGES INSPIRES BRITISHERS TO EMIGRATE

NELSON, B.C., Oct. 27 (BUP)—A British family, settling here recently, brought their home along with them, when they packed up to come to Canada.

Leslie Robert Harris, his wife and their two children, of Leicestershire, England, had a trailer in their effects when they hit these shores.

They traveled for three weeks cross-country to the west, via the United States, in their new trailer.

Harris said he was fired with the idea of coming to Canada by a television appearance of Mrs. Nancy Hodges, former British Columbia Legislature Speaker, when she was visiting in England.

Harris is principal of Riodel High School here. Mrs. Harris is a registered nurse.

LOST FROM ATLANTIC LINER

Probe Mystery Of Missing Bride

LIVERPOOL, Eng., Oct. 27 (Reuters) — An inquiry began here today into the death of Mrs. Bonita King, 22-year-old Canadian bride who disappeared from the Cunard liner Ascania July 30 on a honeymoon trip to Europe.

The girl's scarf, sun glasses and purse were found on deck after her husband, Robert W. King of Edmonton, reported her disappearance.

King said he awoke early in the morning and found that his wife was not in the cabin.

"I immediately looked for her, and after an unsuccessful search I reported the matter to the officer of the watch and a thorough search of the ship was organized," he said.

Edward Stanley, tourist class bedroom steward, told the board today that the couple seemed "quite normal and happy" during the voyage. "As far as I know there had been no trouble between Mr. and Mrs. King and nothing was ever said to suggest that she would do anything drastic," he testified.

The inquiry, which was postponed until the ship completed its current Atlantic run, was adjourned until Wednesday, when the Ascania's commander, Capt. Andrew MacKellar, will testify.

Original 'Beuhla' Of Radio, TV Dead

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 27 (AP).—Hattie McDaniel, the original "Beuhla" of radio and television and the movies' outstanding negro actress and an Academy Award winner, died Sunday after being ill with cancer for more than a year.

Miss McDaniel, who was 57, succumbed at the Motion Picture Country House in San Fernando Valley.

Miss McDaniel, who appeared in some 300 films, was known to millions as "Beuhla" on the radio and TV. Illness forced her retirement from the "Beuhla" show more than a year ago.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

If they have read the A.P. item outlining his problem, editorial page workers on newspapers everywhere will feel like dropping notes of sympathy to Bill Henthorne of the Tulsa, Okla., World.

Bill's paper is being sued because it didn't publish a letter written by a district judge for its "Voice of a Free People" column. Henthorne explains that he has several hundred letters on the same subject and he "can't print all of them." To that he adds, with a touch of wonder, that while his paper has been threatened with all kinds of suits for what it has printed, never before has it been sued for what it didn't print.

Stott

You think of Bill Henthorne and hundreds like him in editorial offices all over the world. You think of the training in judgment, news sense, discretion, libel laws and patience that has made them competent judges of what should and what should not go into the correspondence columns. You think of them laboring like cryptologists to decipher some of the manuscripts forwarded to them. And if you appreciate their problems, you might develop a great admiration for them.

You might. But if you've had a letter rejected or one that's edited down, you won't. A letter to the editor is not just a series of words outlining an idea, contradicting the opinion of someone else or presenting an argument. It is a thing of the spirit, a tender growth nurtured gently to the partial maturity of the letter form and ready to burst upon the world with the nervous eagerness of a debutante.

Unforgivable Crime

Withhold it from publication, or alter a few lines in it for the sake of clarity and brevity, and you are twisting a knife in the heart of its parent. The crime is unforgivable.

Every newspaper knows the reader value in good letters. They give the individuals in a community the right to express their thoughts. They present in different colors a picture that may be stylized in the lines of a staff writer. And—in the opinion of those who write them—they're all good.

They come from authorities and they come from crackpots. They're written by the man in the street who wants to chip in his two cents' worth and they're written by the crusader seeking new outlets for his propaganda. They praise. They blame. They reflect a certain nobility of spirit. They disclose a personal meanness and narrowness that seems inconceivable.

The Bill Henthornes of the world sift them, cutting them down to size, taking out libel and protecting the writers as well as the newspapers. Their rewards in public appreciation?—a handful of ashes, a mouthful of mould, to which the Oklahoma judge has added the possible threat of a law suit against those who show discretion.

The Bill Henthornes of the world aren't going to be stopped in their work by this hostile reaction. They'll take it as part of the officer's pay. But they might make a plea for a little more understanding.

Small Prayer

And they might phrase a little prayer, not for the excellence of literature, nor necessarily for scholarly grammar, but at least for clarity in the letters that come to them. They might ask probably not always for a double-spaced, type-written script, but for legibility; not for the conciseness of the digest magazines, but for reasonable brevity; not for the absence of controversy, but for some sense of restraint in personal attacks; not for a commendation in editing, but for recognition that all a writer says cannot always go into the correspondence columns.

They might offer that little prayer, but they probably wouldn't be heard. So they'll keep on doing their chores, using judgment and the skills they have, and probably pausing a moment to be grateful that incidents like the Oklahoma judge's suit occasionally direct attention to the job they do.

Australia's 'Lloyd George' Dies at 88

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 27 (CP).—William Morris (Billy) Hughes, Welsh immigrant who rose from umbrella-mender to prime minister of Australia from 1915 to 1923, died today in his sleep. He was 88.

A wizened little man scarcely over five feet tall, Hughes was known for his leadership of the country during the First World War when he became known as the "Lloyd George of Australia."

The name suited for other reasons—both were Welshmen, both commanded oratory that could sway political audiences, both were fighters in a colorful political period.

He became a prominent Empire figure during the war years with the "Big Four" of the Dominions—Borden of Canada, Smuts of South Africa and Massey of New Zealand.

He held the distinction of being the only Australian member of the Canadian Privy Council. He was given the honor in 1916 while in Canada in connection with the war effort.

When Gen. Jan Christian Smuts died in 1950, Hughes became the sole surviving signatory of the 1919 Treaty of Versailles.

He was the stormy petrel of the Paris Peace Conference and figured in several memorable "scenes" with President Woodrow Wilson.

He clashed with Wilson by expounding an Australian "Monroe Doctrine" for the Pacific. (The Monroe Doctrine, laid down in 1823 by President James Monroe, barred intervention of non-American countries in affairs of the American continents).

But Hughes got what he wanted — Australian mandates over former German possessions in the Pacific.

Hughes was slightly deaf and cleverly exploited it when statesmen or newspaper men asked embarrassing questions.

Wilson once said of him: "What can you do with a man who can't hear and won't read?"

Despite his many high offices, Hughes never accepted knighthood, but his wife became a dame grand cross of the order of the British Empire in 1922. He was twice married and had three sons and four daughters.

At his 88th birthday party in Canberra Sept. 25, Prime Minister Robert Menzies said Hughes had become a legend in his own lifetime.

He was the only surviving member of the first federal parliament, which was inaugurated in 1901. But Hughes was a parliamentarian for 58 consecutive years altogether; he entered the New South Wales parliament in 1894.

He became labor prime minister in 1915 but soon was rejected by the official Labor Party because of his advocacy of conscription. He broke away from the Labor Party and formed a Liberal-Labor coalition with himself remaining as prime minister until 1923.

'Metropolitan' Parks Board's Election Urged

Scheme to Embrace Greater Victoria Sought by Crusading City Alderman

An elected metropolitan parks commission to administer affairs of Greater Victoria parks was urged today by Ald. Donald Smith.

He announced Saturday he would ask City Council meeting Thursday to approve a resolution asking assent of the Victoria electors for a park commission to replace the present parks committee set-up.

"However, it would be to our mutual advantage to have all municipalities in at the start, rather than trying to sell them on the idea later," Ald. Smith said today.

If City Council approves the park commission system, he will ask that adjoining municipalities be invited to join "and make it a metropolitan board."

A member of the parks committee for the past 10 months, Ald. Smith believes a parks board is the only really efficient way to operate the city's parks.

Following talks to members of park boards of other cities and a thorough study of their systems, Ald. Smith said he felt a similar system in Victoria is "long overdue."

"Advantages of the system greatly outweigh the disadvantages," he said.

Administrator Sympathetic

Supporting Ald. Smith is W. H. Warren, parks administrator. In a brief entitled "Cases of Misdirected Effort in the Park Department," Mr. Warren cites numerous instances in the past where the present system produced poor results.

In the brief he tells of opposing establishment of Macdonald Park in its present location in 1930 on grounds "it was too isolated from the centre of population."

An area now developed for housing bounded by Leighton Road, Redfern, Foul Bay Road and Bouchier was Mr. Warren's choice for the athletic ground. It was turned down and Macdonald Park built "at much greater expense."

"Policy in respect to enclosed parks has been the subject of considerable pressure in the past," Mr. Warren stated in the brief. "A park board elected for a period of years would be less subject to such pressure."

He referred to the present infrequent use of Macdonald Park, to bear out his original position.

A parks board composed of five elected representatives serving without pay for a five-year period is favored by Ald. Smith. A metropolitan board would have a greater number of representatives.

Canadian Writer Wonders if U.S. Prosperity Will Aid Democrats

By R. J. ANDERSON

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (CP)—No one can visit the United States today without being impressed by its prosperity.

Taxes are high, the prices of almost everything are sharply higher than when this writer last was here in 1950, the Korean war and its 20,000 American dead cast a shadow over the land.

Yet there is no doubt that the Democratic slogan of the presidential election campaign—"You've never had it so good"—appeals to many voters.

Republicans who admit to doubt as to the outcome November 4 ask: Will the people throw out the administration in the midst of the prosperity that is America's in 1952?

The Democrats hammer constantly on the theme that the Republicans somehow will take all this away. Politicians say the campaign of Adlai E. Stevenson has gained steam since he began to blast the Republicans as the "party of depression."

On the other hand, a neat listing of Republican charges is: Korea, Communism and corruption. They demand a change on these grounds:

The Korean war needn't have happened. The administration cannot end what it failed to prevent.

One investigation after another has shown that Communists and fellow travelers hold important places in government and hew to the Kremlin line.

Disclosure of corruption in high places shows that rot had set in in an administration too long in office.

There is no doubt, too, that the Republican charges have fallen on fertile seed among the electorate. They are a strong counter-attack to the Democrats' attempt to create fear among the voters.

That's what makes this election one of the most difficult to forecast. Public-opinion polls show that some 14 or 15 per cent of the voters haven't yet made up their minds. What will that imponderable mass say a week from tomorrow?

Key Man in Averagetown, Canada

If you live in an average Canadian community, you can easily see that it's changing.

Everywhere you look, new construction tells a story of progress. Here, perhaps, is a handsome new store. There, a new bridge, office building, power plant, highway, housing project — or some other vital development that makes life better for all.

But do you know that many of these developments are made possible by a certain Key Man? And can you guess who he is?

He's the typical life insurance policyholder—representing millions of Canadians.

How can he do all this just by owning life insurance?

Because a large part of his premium dollars is invested for him in sound securities which help finance many such projects. Each year, more than 225 million life insurance dollars are put to work in these useful ways from coast to coast!

The life insurance policyholder is a helpful citizen in another way. For the money he puts aside for the future helps safeguard his family from ever becoming a financial burden to others.

All in all, he's an asset to his community and the nation!

AT YOUR SERVICE!

A trained life underwriter — representing one of the more than 50 Canadian, British and United States life insurance companies in Canada — will gladly help you plan for your family's security and your own needs in later years. Rely on him!

HERE THERE and EVERYWHERE

HOPELESS—In Chicago the weather forecast today held forth no hopes for rain in 15 or more states ravaged by drought-induced forest and bush fires.

Except for snow flurries in the Great Lakes region and colder air moving south and east through the Dakotas, Indian summer continued in the eastern United States.

Heavy, soaking rains were needed over hundreds of square miles to relieve tinder-dry conditions in woodlands and plains where thousands of men fought hnudreds of fires—many of them out of control.

"Very dangerous conditions" were reported throughout rural New England, where open fires and smoking were banned, some forests were closed to the public and officials were surveying whether other forests should be closed. The affected states are Maine, New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

INTEREST—Claude Root, general manager of the Better Business Bureau of Montreal, today told the Kingston Kiwanis club that the B.B.B. believes "fully 97 per cent of established business has honest intent."

In an address prepared for delivery at a luncheon meeting, Mr. Root said that "the villain of the piece is the so-called business man who seems to feel that the end justifies the means, however unsound or injurious to the interests of the public. . ."

"So business has entrusted the B.B.B. with the arduous task of informing, cautioning and protecting the public against sharpsters and their predatory schemes."

PANTHER? — Several residents of the Black Rock district near Turo, N.B., today reported sighting a sleek, black animal "not unlike a panther."

Max Henderson, 50, said the animal had a long tail and was larger than a wildcat or fox.

"It was not unlike pictures I have seen of panthers," he said.

Leslie Blackburn, 20, saw a similar animal in the same area while hunting last week but it moved so swiftly he was not able to shoot at it.

Believed extinct in the Maritimes for 60 years, panthers were discovered in New Brunswick in 1948. Although none has been shot or photographed, naturalists have, through study of the tracks and other evidence, definitely identified the species.

QUIVERED—Northern Honsu quivered through 85 light earthquakes Sunday night and sent terrified Japanese fleeing to the mountains.

No damage was reported, except to the nerves.

Inhabitants of coastal areas scurried to the mountains in fear of tidal waves. The government observatory said their fears were groundless.

BLESSING—Twenty-five Canadian airmen from the R.C.A.F.'s No. 2 fighter wing took part Sunday in a ceremony of blessing and benediction at the parish church in Lelling, near Tenquin, France.

The roof and steeple of the church were struck by shell-fire some 50 times in heavy fighting around Gros Tenquin in 1944.

The ceremony of blessing the steeple was part of a special Franco-Canadian day arranged by French officials.

4,000 Elite Guard Cheer S.S. General

Ex-Nazi General Ramcke Demands Release Of Germans; Meyer Will Stay in Jail

VERDEN, Germany, Oct. 27 (AP) — Four thousand former members of Hitler's S.S. (Elite Guard), cheered former General Hermann Ramcke here today as he accused Allied soldiers of war crimes and demanded the release of all "so-called German war criminals."

(Reuters said Ramcke's speech was punctuated with shouts of "Eisenhower, filthy swine." Eisenhower was supreme Allied commander in Europe at the end of the Second World War.)

The S.S. troopers assembled in this 1,200-year-old city for the first big postwar reunion.

Ramcke, a paratroop general and one of the most popular German wartime leaders, told the S.S. men they had been fighting for their fatherland as well as any other German soldiers and that, therefore, "all defamation of their honor must stop."

All those Allied officers and soldiers who bombed German cities are also war criminals," Ramcke said.

"If our soldiers are convicted as war criminals then it was also a war crime when Allies bombed unprotected German cities and when the Allies now invent atom bombs," Ramcke said.

Urged Not to Take Up Arms Again

He urged S.S. troopers not to take up arms again in any cause as long as Germans still were held in Allied prisons.

Ramcke himself was released last year from a French war crimes prison.

Former S.S. General Felix Steiner summoned reporters after the meeting and hastily told them Ramcke was a guest speaker and that he and the other S.S. veterans refused to identify themselves with his allegations.

Earlier, Steiner had urged his men at the rally to support plans for a United Europe.

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP).—Defense Minister Claxton said Saturday it is not true that the Canadian government will shortly review the case of Kurt Meyer, German general now serving a life sentence in western Germany for his part in the shooting of Canadian prisoners.

"That's a good invention," Mr. Claxton said of the report, published in Toronto. "It's not true."

The Toronto story associated the reported review of the case with the general Allied policy of amnesty which has resulted recently in the release of several high-ranking Germans.

(Kurt Meyer, one of the youngest SS generals on the western front, was sent to a Maritime jail after sentence at the war trials.

(Over a year ago, stories were circulated that two Halifax lawyers were "arranging" his release on the grounds that he had been incorrectly sentenced. This was subsequently denied by the defense department.

(However, Meyer was transferred to a jail in Germany.)

CONVICTED—G. Edward Grammer, 36-year-old office manager stands convicted in Baltimore, Md., of slaying his wife last August by beating her with a steel pipe and making it look like an auto accident. Judge Herman Moser, who tried the case without a jury at Grammer's request, termed the convicted man's affair with U.N. employee Mathilde Mizibrocki a "point of no return" which forced him to slay his wife. With three days in which to file an appeal, Grammer faces a death penalty or life imprisonment.

Five in Family Die As Car Rams Bridge

ETHELBERT, Man., Oct. 27 (CP).—Five members of one family were killed and a sixth severely injured Sunday when their car rammed a cement pillar at the Garland Creek bridge on No. 10 highway eight miles north of Ethelbert. Ethelbert is 38 miles north of Dauphin.

The victims were: William Kozarchuk, 56, of Venlaw, Man.; his wife, Dora, 52; two sons, John, 22, and Morris, 12; and a daughter, Victoria, 15.

Only family survivor was 10-year-old Walter Kozarchuk, who is in Ethelbert Hospital. He suffered fractures of the skull, leg and arm.

Hospital attendants said today the boy had partially regained consciousness.

Roy Caruk of Dauphin discovered the accident at 4 a.m. and notified R.C.M.P.

The injured boy was found on the floor of the car and had been sitting in the rear seat with his parents. The other victims were in the front seat.

John Kozarchuk was believed to have been driving when the car snapped off three wooden guard posts before ramming the pillar. One of the guard posts was hurled about 40 feet across the creek and into the bush.

Reports said the engine was ripped from the chassis and the front of the car was wrapped around the pillar.

A slight downhill grade and gradual curve lead to the bridge. Residents said the car's tracks showed it gradually "wandered" off the highway on the grade.

It was thought the driver fell asleep.

BRITISH DIPLOMATS PACK BAGS AND LEAVE TEHRAN TO IRANIANS

TEHRAN, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — British diplomats packed their bags and departed today, leaving behind the wreckage of prolonged oil negotiations which ended last week when diplomatic relations were severed.

Twenty-three members of the British Embassy left by road for Baghdad, Iraq, this morning.

Iran broke off diplomatic relations with Britain following an exchange of notes on Iran's nationalization of the British-owned Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Mayor Praises Labor's Plan For Education

Canadian Congress of Labor closed its first two-day union institute with a banquet Sunday night and a "pat on the back" from Mayor C. L. Harrison.

"You are very wise in training yourselves for work that is so important to your future," the mayor told delegates and their wives at Monterey Restaurant.

"Enemies of labor say you are ruining the country, but I know that is not true," he said. "You want to see your country prosper as much as anyone else."

He advised the trade unionists to take part in public affairs and to run for seats on the city council.

"I'd like to have some of you on my council," he said.

S. M. Hodgson, second vice-president of the B.C. District Council, I.W.A., spoke against a proposed change that would put the Labor Relations Board on a part-time instead of full-time basis.

"It would be a backward step," he said. "Ontario now is considering instituting a full-time board."

He also said the government must remember that the board is answerable to the minister of labor.

"When the board makes a decision now it cannot be appealed," he said.

Stevenson and Stalin

GOVERNOR STEVENSON EVIdently agrees with the policy of Canada on trade with Japan, as announced by Mr. St. Laurent in his recent Victoria speech. Like Canada, the United States, says Mr. Stevenson, must be prepared to trade with Japan or it will force Japan into the arms of Communist China and Russia. That is precisely what Mr. St. Laurent said in this city when he revealed his government's determination to make a new trade treaty with Japan.

Mr. Stevenson's arguments in favor of such a policy in the United States are unanswerable, in terms of economics, international politics and joint defense.

Japan, he observes, has to support 85,000,000 people on an acreage of arable land no greater than that of New York State, and every day there are 5,000 more mouths to feed.

"How," he asks, "is Japan to live if she cannot trade abroad? How can she live if we deny her access to our market, the world's richest and most compact market? If we deny her that access do you believe the Japanese will starve to please Senator Taft? Won't they turn to their great nearby markets of Red China and Red Russia? Doesn't this mean that ultimately we will lose our great Japanese ally to Communism? And if this should happen would not the odds against us become crushingly heavier than they are now? On the other hand, a prosperous Japan could be—as she was before the war—one of our greatest customers."

As Governor Stevenson says, Marshal Stalin understands these matters only too well.

In his recent testament to the Soviet congress in Moscow Stalin predicted that the free nations would not co-operate economically, that they would quarrel about markets, ruin one another and finally go to war.

Mr. Stevenson says that Stalin has rightly interpreted the mentality of the Republican party on the problems of trade, but that is a partisan statement on which foreigners cannot properly express an opinion. It is certain, however, that the attempt to suppress trade by restrictive tariffs, whoever makes it, can only produce the impoverishment of the free world that Stalin expects and grave political strains as well.

During a Presidential election campaign all such issues are bound to be confused in platform oratory. They will remain and will have to be faced when the new executive and legislature are installed in Washington. What the next President and Congress do about trade during the next year or two will very largely determine the future of the free world.

A Good Beginning

THE TAX REDUCTIONS planned by the Bennett government evidently are to be very small. The exemption of dollar meals and a few classes of goods from the sales tax will have little effect on the average taxpayer. But it will be a beginning. It will arrest the rising tax curve of recent times and prove the government's determination to hold down expenditures.

Everything will depend on its ability to hold down expenditures. If they were allowed to increase at the former rate every cent of revenue the government could collect would be needed to meet them, with nothing left over for tax reduction.

No doubt the government is collecting more revenue this year than ever but it cannot be sure that the yield will continue indefinitely. The present yield must be extraordinarily large if Mr. Bennett can pay for large public works out of income and reduce taxes, even by a small margin, at the same time.

Or else the government is planning some drastic economies in its running costs. Mr. Bennett indicates that economy is under way but he gives no figures and presumably will give none until the spring budget is introduced.

Meanwhile, with his eye on two by-elections, he adopts the unusual course of announcing tax reductions before the budget is prepared. It is to be hoped that when the figures of revenue and expenditure for the next fiscal year are added up they will make possible the marginal reductions now promised, or perhaps even some real relief to the taxpayer.

An Answer to the Garbage Problem?

REEVE CASEY OF SAANICH HAS presented to other Greater Victoria municipalities the outline of a plow-and-cover garbage disposal system as an alternative to the present method of dumping refuse at sea.

It would, the reeve says, use a location 12 miles from town, where waste materials would be dumped and covered, following collection at a substation two and one-half miles from the city. On a contract basis, the operation, according to the reeve's figures, would cost Victoria about what it is now paying and charges would be somewhat lower for other municipalities.

Provided a suitable location has been picked, provided no health menace is created, and provided some assurances can be given that cost estimates at present will not be subject to serious upward revision later, the proposal promises to eliminate a nuisance that has drawn complaints for years over the present system.

No one in authority suggests that dumping at sea is satisfactory. The policy is followed because no more economical substitute has yet been developed to replace it.

Reeve Casey's scheme may be the answer. But before the equipment used in the present system—bad as that system may be—is abandoned, it might be well for the municipalities to make sure they have a guarantee that a new plan is physically and economically feasible. No one wishes to see the present garbage wharf and facilities preserved indefinitely. On the other hand, it would be folly to dismantle them until a more successful and efficient method is proved.

Crying After the Crash

WHILE A POLICE MAGISTRATE is restricted in his ability to stop bad drivers from driving, he can still recommend to the provincial superintendent of motor vehicles suspension of driving privileges when such action seems warranted.

In court the other day Magistrate Hall expressed impatience with those who appeared before him in motor vehicle cases and asked that he recommend leniency.

"It does become trying," the magistrate said, "when people abuse their privilege of driving then seek leniency when they appear in court. If such drivers would apply more thought and care while they are driving they would save themselves a great deal of trouble."

He might have added pain, injury, damage and sometimes death to the list of what drivers might avoid by operating their cars carefully.

Since suspension of driving privileges appears to be the most effective sanction that can be applied to the careless driver, the magistrate does well to take the position he has established. No one who drives as he should is in danger of being ruled off the highway. Why should anyone who does not drive properly expect consideration?

The regrets of offenders are honest enough when they face suspension. But no amount of regret will breathe life back into a person killed by a careless driver. The time to show concern is before an accident occurs. If sufficient concern is shown at that time the accident may be avoided.

The Zaniest Mayors in Captivity

IN THE NEWSREELS THE OTHER night we saw pictures of two genial extroverts, mayors of great Canadian cities, indulging in a plowing contest. Allan Lamport of Toronto wore a white suit with appropriate lettering; his tractor bore a sign giving his name and station. For Charlotte Whitton of Ottawa, the resolute jaw, the close-cropped hair and the steely eye were identification enough.

This was a noble effort, but on the whole, rather pedestrian. The standards of zaniness set by Canadian mayors these days challenges the subtlest minds. How can a simple plowing match compare, for instance, with the honor accruing to the mayor of Moose Jaw, who claims the pillow-fighting championship of all Saskatchewan? Or with the gallantry of the mayor of Magog, Quebec, who parachuted into a river recently to dramatize some obscure cause—and incidentally, himself.

Bear witness now to Don McKay of Calgary, who likes to campaign on horseback, and flip pancakes on the main streets of that estimable city; to Fred Hume of Vancouver, whose largesse and joie de vivre are legendary and who got his nose caught in a City Hall door just a few days ago; to Garnet Coulter, the Winnipeg septuagenarian, who walked off with the prettiest secretary ever employed by the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities; to the mayor of Edmunston, N.B., who recently enlivened a Calgary party by swimming the length of a pool with his clothes on; and, for that matter, to Claude L. Harrison of Victoria, the man with the silk-lined cape and the Napoleonic bows.

Will the man who said that Canadians are "colorless" kindly step outside? We have news for him.

Chips

By DAVE BROCK

SOME of you will have heard Professor Joad on the B.B.C., and read snippets of that distressing old man in print. I ran across a column of his in a South African paper. I don't know if it is syndicated stuff, or if he writes for that paper on purpose, so to speak. If the latter, it might indicate that he doesn't despise the Commonwealth, but merely Canadians. You may recall that a few years ago this pompous and posturing academic clown refused to meet Canadians. He said no Canadian was fit to talk with.

Brock

The reason for our horrible dullness is that for generations England sent Canada her very worst types . . . remittance men, who were criminals, morons, drunkards, or plain incompetent . . . and from these we are all descended. It is this kind of talk which makes some English journalists refer to the professor as Joad the Obscure.

In his South African article, this oracle was explaining why American clothes for children are a sign of a sick civilization. It was so crammed with childish spite, one can see that he was bitten by several Americans as well as Canadians in his early and impressionable youth. Maybe his mother was frightened by an American before he was born.

* * *

I'll spare you the general argument, which is too obscure for dumb Canadians. . . . It seems to be that American clothes for children are (a) too childish, because the parents who buy them are mentally retarded themselves, and (b) too grown-up, because the parents want the kids to mature too fast.

But you might be interested in some details. Such as the fact that American high school boys are given shiny new cars. Or the fact that American women of 40 have horn-rimmed glasses and leathery skins. Or the fact that Americans don't take exercise. Or the fact that all Americans have pale, pasty faces. Or the fact that America has produced no writing, painting or music . . . this is because all culture is left to leather-faced and dreadful old female wrecks of 40, while all American men do absolutely nothing except rush madly around making money.

* * *

What I liked best was his theory that Americans are frightfully unhealthy. This is proved, for example, by the "fact" that a quarter of New York's population is under the care of psychoanalysts!

Without bothering to contest his assumption that New York is America, let us see what the figure is for nervous troubles in England. According to British medical authorities, one out of three people in England who consult their doctors has some sort of nervous trouble. And since almost everyone consults a doctor these days . . . well! Not only that, but the Scottish doctor Cheyne discovered in 1733 that the figure was about the same in those days . . . 219 years ago . . . so why blame modern living in general, let alone New York living?

DIET DOES IT

Talking of health, Bertrand Russell gave a series of talks, a few weeks ago, on various old friends and acquaintances of his. One was on Sidney Webb and his wife, Beatrice, two of the parents of the British Labor party. Here is a delightful excerpt: "For a number of years Mrs. Webb was addicted to fasting, from motives partly hygienic and partly religious. She would have no breakfast and a very meagre dinner. Her only solid meal was lunch. She almost always had a number of distinguished people to lunch, but she would get so hungry that the moment it was announced she marched in ahead of all her guests and started to eat.

"She nevertheless believed that starvation made her more spiritual, and once told me that it gave her exquisite visions. 'Yes,' I replied, 'if you eat too little you see visions; and if you drink too much you see snakes.' I am afraid she thought this remark inexcusably flippant."

NEWS FROM THE NEXT WORLD

The other day a Vancouver friend sent me a postcard. It was carefully marked Personal, but as it was addressed to me I felt free to read it and even look at the picture. The picture was of "Canada's Most Beautiful Cemetery" . . . or so the title said, though I could see only the gates and a driveway. The gateposts had some very menacing-looking spikes on them, suitable for the heads of traitors. The message on the other side was simple but stimulating. It said "Having grand rest. Wish you were here."

I don't exactly wish I was there, though it's nice to be wanted. But I admit these holidays are jollier when you've got company. As the man in the French play said when he wanted a stranger to join him in a suicidal leap into the river, "A deux, c'est plus gai." In other words, "With two of us, it would be gayer."

MORE FOR THE POSTMAN

It seems I'm not the only person who gets mail. A friend of mine in a large company got this one. "Dear Sir, I am a young happily married man, 25 years old. For some seven years I have been learning in the great University of Life. And now I believe I can be taught. I want to dig into the rough and tumble game of Business where no quarter is given and none asked. Business friends have told me that I have ability. But I dearly need the toughening that young men of today lack . . . the ability to capitalize on their knowledge and come through by thinking rather than by brute strength. (What, no toughening after all?)

"I can give you all the references required. But they aren't worth the paper they're printed on. They all praise me. And praise is the last thing I want. They cheered me too much at home and at school. Can we talk it over? You will find that my hat fits me now."

Slightly pathetic? Oh, I don't deny that. For one thing, the poor devil isn't half so sure of himself as he has to pretend.

CAT TORTURERS

A great many people in Victoria are waiting to hear the result of one of the cases concerning juveniles torturing a cat. This case, I understand, was heard in a closed court three weeks ago and was remanded to the following week. All has been silent since and any inquiries made by interested persons have been met with stony silence.

It is high time the sentence, if any, meted out to these culprits was made known to the general public, along with the names of the juveniles concerned so that the coolness of public opinion may have an opportunity to make itself felt in the homes from which sadistic children of this type emanate.

Ill-treatment and torture of helpless animals is becoming far too commonplace these days and unless the punishment is made to fit the crime and the "iron curtain" drawn aside Victoria is going to have nothing to be proud of in an increase of animal torture cases.

This type of sadism, practiced by a few, reflects very poorly on the good name of our fair city and everyone in it. Let's have fair play for the animals, too.

FOREST FIRES

For the past few weeks the green timber of Vancouver Island, its most valuable asset, has been going up in smoke and it is vitally important that the people realize that this desperate loss developed because the government failed to take obvious preventive measures before and after the event.

The two chief causes of the fires have been the burning of slash when the woods were in a highly combustible condition, and cigarette ends and matches dropped by hunters. Yet the forestry department actually encouraged slash fires and did not close the woods to hunters. So millions of feet of good timber have been burnt, there has been untold anxiety and danger to homes, hundreds of volunteers have had to leave their jobs and do exhausting fire-fighting.

Also there will be subsequent erosion and danger of floods, and the streams will be blocked by debris to prevent the salmon coming up to spawn.

It appears that after midnight, Sept. 30, the woods are open and the government has no further responsibility with regard to forest fires.

When I first reported the fire that burned at Saseenos for six days, destroying miles of virgin timber and endangering us all, it was no more than a puff of smoke. The fire warden for the Sooke district told me he was not responsible and that I must use my garden hose.

Later, when he had been forced to take part in fighting it, I found him sitting by my creek watching the fire creep along the opposite bank. He had a hose and pump handy, but he told me he had decided to let the fire burn the whole bank.

When I told him it was my property and I didn't want it burnt, he just shrugged and said I had no say in the matter.

That is how the forestry department works and the sooner people wake up to the danger of allowing it to continue in such dictatorial inadequacy the better.

WHAT HAPPENED.

I cannot help wondering what has happened to the Chinese Benevolent Society's protest over the statement attributed to a city constable regarding the "decency" of Chinatown's people.

The last I heard of the protest was when it was nonchalantly put off "until next week" by the authorities. Of course, I may merely have missed the news item reporting the outcome, but if nothing has been done about it, it is indeed a most regrettable situation.

After all, an injustice has been done to a group of Victoria's citizens. Does that not call for at least an investigation?

We cannot hope to avert further wars and disruptions while race prejudice is given official sanction in the form of averted eyes.

The Question Is Put

Because of the threat of a great and terrible tragedy confronting this generation, will you please put the question to the ministers of the different denominations: "Can mankind procure peace on earth by mortal endeavors, or is it possible only by literal divine intervention?"

There is a widespread belief that we shall never know peace unless we procure it for ourselves. That may be excusable in a Godless people, but where Christendom is concerned that advent of 1952 years ago alters things entirely.

In the Lord's Prayer we petition "Thy kingdom come." It is a petition, wherein is included that promise "The lion shall lie down with the lamb" amongst other promises. Well, we know there is a tooth and claw existence in wildlife that we are utterly powerless to alter. It must needs be done by divine mandate. The same thing applies all through the piece. Thorns and thistles, sweat of brow, dust unto dust, plagues of Egypt still with us, conflict between good and evil.

There are famines, pestilences and earthquakes, and our Jewish neighbors who have been peculiarly afflicted above all other peoples for more than 1900 years. All common knowledge, as is the fact that more than 90 per cent of sacred prophecy was literally fulfilled according to the record, some few years ago.

So if we are persuaded that we are divinely equipped to obtain peace in spite of the overwhelming volume of contrary evidence, a lot of people would be glad to have it explained.

It is ours to choose between the mortal deliberations of the U.N. or to inquire of God, by the grace of God to deliver us from a terrible conflict. Will you put the question?

Tribute From the East

AUSTIN E. CROSS, in The Ottawa Citizen

CANADA'S new ambassador to Japan crowns a distinguished career when he presents his credentials to The Mikado next November. But if Canada honors Mr. Mayhew in this appointment, Mr. Mayhew also honors Canada in accepting it.

The first postwar ambassador to Japan and still M.P. for Victoria, B.C., got to the top the hard way. Mileposts in his career upwards include a brief stop in Ottawa as a junior in a merchandising house; some real estate ventures on the prairie, and then a humble beginning all over again in Victoria.

Ultimately he made his fortune in paper products and roofing so that, by the time he came to Ottawa as a freshman M.P., he was already a highly esteemed businessman on the West Coast.

Although he arrived on Parliament Hill a diffident and seemingly timid tyro politician, already his counsels were being listened to with respect on the West Coast, and trade boards eagerly sought his advice.

But Ottawa is the place you start all over again. Bob Mayhew had arrived here from Victoria via a by-election when he succeeded the late Simon Fraser Tolmie, onetime Premier of British Columbia and before that, federal minister of agriculture.

ANONYMOUS

A plain M.P., he was content to be all but anonymous. A bigshot in Victoria, maybe, but a backbencher in Ottawa.

But gradually, as you got to know him better, you saw the quiet confidence begotten by big business, you noted his subdued authority, you quickly realized his competence and his capacity. This was not lost on Mackenzie King, who had a proverbially long nose for talent. Indeed he had put Mr. Mayhew to work long before he was made parliamentary assistant to the minister of finance.

This money stuff was, of course, duck soup to Bob Mayhew who knew how money was made—and incidentally how to use it.

It seems to me that it was as minister of fisheries he excelled. I utter no hyperbole when I say Mayhew was the greatest fisheries minister since Confederation. He streamlined the department, brought the public better fish faster than ever before, and he secured greater revenue for fishermen.

But this above all, particularly here in Ottawa! He gave the civil servants in his department new hope. He pepped up morale. He blew fresh air into the musty, anachronistic old department. Mayhew was the best thing that ever happened to fisheries.

HIGHLY ESTEEMED

Highly esteemed by his fellow cabinet ministers, renowned, with C. D. Howe, as being one of the outstandingly successful businessmen in the cabinet, Bob Mayhew added to that some outstanding diplomacy. In Australia, in Japan, and elsewhere he carried the name of our country high, he wrote stimulating new chapters of Canadian history.

His personal life never mattered. He has a palace out on the sea at Oak Bay. Yet for his own country's sake he has sacrificed that these last 10 years for a hotel bedroom. He has changed the comforts he could have in his flower-strewn estate by the sea for the dubious table d'hotes of Ottawa. No man in public life has given up more to serve his own Canada.

Now these days Bob Mayhew has traded his portfolio for a Japanese grammar.

The fundamental objection to the new regulations which the C.B.C. proposes to inflict on private radio is an old one; the C.B.C. continues to enjoy a unique position whereby it is not only in competition with private stations for advertising revenues, but is also in a position to make and enforce regulations to govern the conduct of its competitors.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"IT OFTEN happens," said the Elevator Man, "that folks these days are confronted with remedies that are more drastic than the malady. We're always having to shoot the horse to cure its broken leg, or ruin the house with water to put the fire out. When you get to a place like that you have to stop and figure out how much advantage there is in 'improving' your position with one of the kill-or-cure propositions. It's sometimes no benefit to be like the famous Irish author who cut off his prose to spite his race. Going up!

Tobin

"You'd think," said the Elevator Man, "that getting rid of smoke and fog wouldn't be such a difficut thing. But many a plan has been tried without success. Now a fella down in Los Angeles has come out with a foolproof scheme, guaranteed to do away with smog and leave the air clear. He says the solution is for the four million people around Los Angeles to move away, stop all outdoor fires, eliminate most automobiles, prohibit smoking, and do away with industry. With those little improvements made, the Los Angeles air would be pure and clean. And come to think of it, the Los Angeles landscape would be too. But most of us aren't willing to go as far as annihilation to achieve perfection. A good many of us won't even kill an idea to get a better one. We'd rather be wrong than wrung; we'd rather be diseased than deceased. Lower main!

"It's normal," said the Elevator Man, "for mankind to be dissatisfied with what it's got. But it's also normal not to do anything about it. We're all critics, although lots of times we don't realise it. We're like that clergyman who was writing his sermon one day. His young son was watching him, and finally asked, 'Daddy, does God tell you what to say?' 'Of course, my boy,' said the clergyman, 'Why do you ask?' 'Well,' says the youngster, 'why do you scratch such a lot of it out?'"

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

VICTORIA'S SUNSHINE RECORD TO DATE, 1952—2,092.2 HOURS

SYNOPSIS: The large storm offshore was beginning to weaken this morning and strong winds over the northern coast will moderate gradually, although cloudy and showery weather will continue Tuesday. Cloudiness from the coastal disturbance will extend over the northern interior Tuesday. The southern coast should fare better with some periods of sunshine. The sunny weather that will prevail in at least higher levels of the southern interior will be obscured in many valleys by a deck of low hanging cloud.

De Valera May Have to Quit Eire Politics

Eye Trouble Plagues Prime Minister

DUBLIN, Oct. 27 (AP)—Associates of Prime Minister Eamon De Valera of the Republic of Ireland feared today that his eye trouble may force him out of active public life.

Specialists in a clinic at Utrecht, The Netherlands, are fighting to save what remains of the 70-year-old leader's sight.

Colleagues in De Valera's Fianna Fail party doubt that he will be able to carry on much longer the day-to-day duties of prime minister, even if the treatment is successful.

Most prominently mentioned as De Valera's probable successor are two members of his cabinet—Sean Lemass, 50, minister for industry and commerce, who is the acting prime minister, and Frank Aiken, 54, minister for external affairs.

De Valera was virtually blind when he went to Utrecht. Official documents had to be read to him by secretaries.

ROME, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The staff of Rome radio began a 24-hour strike today. Employees of the state-run broadcasting company took part in a similar strike throughout Italy three weeks ago.

$56-Million Scandal Brings 2-Year Term

TOKYO, Oct. 27 (AP).—Setsuzo Hinohara, a businessman charged with masterminding a $56,000,000 scandal, was sentenced to two years in jail today.

Suehiro Nishio, former Socialistic vice-premier convicted of taking bribes, was given a one-year sentence, deferred for three years. The deferment amounts to a parole.

The Tokyo district court gave lesser sentences and fines to 20 other defendants.

The bribery scandal toppled the Hitoshi Ashida cabinet in 1948. Hinohara was fined 50,000 yen (about $150) in addition to his sentence. He pleaded guilty.

Hinohara rebuilt his war-wrecked Showa Denko Chemical Fertilizer Co. into one of post-war Japan's largest firms. The rebuilding was financed by huge loans from the government's reconversion finance bank. The prosecution charged he got the loans through bribery.

MURDER CHARGE

CHICAGO, Oct. 27 (AP) — A cook, who police said set a fire in anger over his girl friend's unexpected absence, was charged with murder Sunday after a hotel blaze in which a fireman perished. Besides the murder charge Wayne Walbridge, 29, is accused of arson in setting the fire at the Argyle Hotel.

MOTHER IN GERMAN JAIL, TWO BABIES TRAVEL BY AIR TO U.S.

WESTOVER AIR FORCE BASE, Massachusetts, Oct. 27 (BUP)—Two baby girls—whose mother is serving a two-and-a-half-year prison sentence in Germany—are en route from Westover air force base in Massachusetts to Minnesota.

Eighteen-month-old Diane Wage and her seven-month-old sister, Kathleen, were flown to Westover from Germany in the care of two U.S. Navy nurses. A commercial airliner is taking them to their grandmother's home in Red Wing, Minnesota.

Their mother—19-year-old Mrs. Joan Wage—was sentenced by a United States High Commission Court in Munich for killing her soldier husband—Sergt. Dan Wage. He was shot to death after a family argument.

Plants, Animals and People have a craving for saving

It's a deep instinct of life – the habit of saving – when and while opportunity permits.

The cactus plant saves water against the drought.

The beaver saves bark against the winter months.

People save earnings against – and for – the future.

The wise ones do!

* * *

The habit of saving goes far back in human history.

The hunter of old! Enough meat today – but what of tomorrow?

The early farmer! Enough crop this year – but what about next?

The freeman artisan! A good market for wares now – but what of the future?

And so – the habit of saving.

* * *

In 1952, the medium of exchange in Canada is money. The means to food and clothing, shelter, the good things of life, personal and family security – is money. The dollar earned – while opportunity permits.

* * *

Earned and spent? Or earned and partly saved?

* * *

Some people have formed the habit of saving to meet unforeseeable needs – emergencies, illness, joblessness.

Some have formed the habit of saving to meet foreseeable wants – a new house, a car, a university education for a child or children, a long-planned holiday, the needs of old age.

Some have formed the habit of saving to provide means to take advantage of business or investment opportunities that come to all of us.

* * *

A good habit, this saving earnings against – and for – the future. It leads to a fuller life, a securer tomorrow, more enjoyment. It's the stuff that makes dreams come true.

* * *

Do YOU have the saving habit?

* * *

You'll agree that saving today and spending tomorrow doesn't get you very far. The way to save effectively is to save regularly and systematically. Canada Savings Bonds provide you with such a way.

* * *

Canada Savings Bonds are available to you now – in easy instalments – through your investment dealer, bank or your Company's Payroll Savings Plan. Better than cash, they are always cashable at any bank at any time – for full face value plus interest.

CANADA SAVINGS BONDS are not available to cacti or beavers – just people – wise people.

GUESS EMIL DID IT FOR THE PARTY—WHO ELSE?

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — Prague radio reported that Czech marathon runner Emil Zatopek broke three long distance world records Sunday.

Running in a track meet at Houstka, near Prague, the Olympic champion knocked off the marks for 15 miles, 25 kilometres and 30 kilometres. The records were all set during same run, timekeepers ticking them off as Zatopek circled the track lap after lap.

The Czech Communist radio foreshadowed Zatopek's great performance today in a broadcast Friday. A broadcast quoted the runner as having pledged himself to set the records in honor of being recently granted a Communist party card.

Zatopek's times, with existing recognized records in brackets, follow:

15 miles—1.16.26.4 (1.17.28.69).

25 kilometres (about 15¾ miles) — 1.19.21.8 (1.20.14.9).

30 kilometres (about 19 miles) — 1.35.23.8 (1.38.54.9).

The Wings took one of the worst beatings in club history Saturday night, a 9-0 loss to Montreal Canadiens, then, to cap probably the blackest week-end in their history, went down 3-2 Sunday before the lowly New York Rangers. It was New York's first victory in seven games.

In other games, Boston Bruins trounced Joe Primeau's in-and-out Toronto Maple Leafs 4-0 Saturday while the Bruins and Chicago Black Hawks played to a 1-1 Sunday tie at Chicago.

Detroit's crashing defeats dropped them into a third-place tie with Boston, one point behind Chicago. The high-flying Canadiens swept into first place with 10 points, one ahead of the Hawks.

The Hawks' deadlock was their second consecutive tie. Jim McFadden rapped in a first-period tally to put the Hawks ahead, then Johnny Peirson took a Jerry Toppazzini - Jack McIntyre pass for the equalizer.

At New York Jack Stoddard swatted home two rebounds, the final one giving Rangers their win. Most of the action took place in the second period of the bruising contest.

An amazed but happy Montreal crowd of 14,538 saw their Canadiens slaughter the Wings Saturday night in what was believed to be the worst defeat ever suffered by Sawchuk. It was goalie Gerry McNeil's first shutout of the season.

The scoring parade saw Floyd Curry and Dick Gamble each count twice. Singletons went to Tom Johnston, Maurice Richard, Bernie Geoffrion, Billy Reay and Bert Olmstead.

RICHARD NEARS RECORD

Richard's counter sent his all-time N.H.L. total to 322, only two short of the record held by Nels Stewart, former player with the old Montreal Maroons, Boston Bruins and New York Americans. Sawchuk held out 36 of the 45 shots fired at him.

MEEKER INJURED

Leafs lost left winger Howie Meeker, carried out in a stretcher after he crashed into the boards in the second period. He was taken to hospital with back and head injuries. Attendants said later he was resting comfortably.

Packers End V's Win Streak

Kelowna Packers cut Penticton V's winning streak at four games Saturday night, nipping Bill Carse's crew 2-1 in an Okanagan Senior Hockey League game at Kelowna.

In the other O.S.H.L. game, Vernon Canadians trampled Kamloops Elks 6-1 at Kamloops.

In the Western International League, Trail Smoke Eaters finally hit their stride in the bottom half of the game to defeat the Maple Leafs 8-6 at Nelson. Spokane Flyers decisioned Kimberley Dynamiters 5-3 at Spokane Saturday night and trounced them 7-1 Sunday.

Combines Nip Vikings, Punjab, Tillicums Tie

Victoria Combines trounced winless Victoria College Vikings 7-0 in a penalty-studded junior division game in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association Sunday.

Combines went ahead 1-0 at half time on a penalty shot by Don Burley and then added six more goals in the final half.

Burley notched a hat trick while Jack Blevins scored a pair and Craig Massey a singleton.

Punjab United found the magic touch as they held a powerful Tillicum club to a 1-1 draw in the other junior division game. Shabave Singh scored Punjab United's goal while Ian Holroyd tallied for the clubmen.

Harris Cycles beat Sidney Teen Town 5-3 in a fast, well-played game at Sidney Memorial Park. Cycles led 2-1 at the half, then added three more in the final frame while Sidney added two.

Army, Navy and Air Force Vets remained undefeated as they trounced Eagles 5-1 in a first division game.

Goals by Garry Deacon and Jimmy McGhee gave the Vets a 2-0 edge at half time. However, Eagles' right wing, Fred Curtiss notched a goal within a minute of play in the second half. Eagles tried desperately to get back into the game but Vets set up a stonewall defense to thwart all birdmen scoring attempts.

Delta Electric moved into first place in the second division by virtue of a 4-1 victory over the winless Canadian Scottish.

RETAIN LEAD

Mic Mac's retained their third-division league lead, edging Combine pee wees 2-1 Saturday.

Goals by Bob Nobel and Reg Sinclair gave Mic Mac's a 2-0 lead at half time with Combines scoring their lone goal at the opening minutes of the second half.

TREMENDOUS SCORE

Black and White Taxi continued their unbeaten string in the fourth division by soundly trouncing St. Louis College 16-0. The taximen scored four goals in the first half followed by 12 in the second half.

Eagles strengthened their fifth-division league lead by whipping Shepherd's Dairy, 3-1.

Dave Benson scored two goals in the first half to put Eagles ahead 2-1 at the breather.

TIME OUT! By Jeff Keate

"No, these seats don't bother me too much—I'm all right if I don't look down!"

What Else Could Elmer Do?

Elmer Curtis, Victoria Kins' ball-hawking guard, solved a difficult problem in clever fashion Saturday night prior to Kins' senior A basketball game with Alberni Athletics. Not wanting to make six-foot-eight-and-one-half-inch centre Bill Dobbie uncomfortable, Curtis climbed atop a bench to reach Dobbie's lofty ear and whisper plans of deep strategy. But in spite of the best laid plans of Curtis and Dobbie, Alberni opened the Victoria home season by edging Kins 54-47.

A's Defeat Kins If Anyone Cares

Alberni 54, Victoria 47

Alberni Athletics and the newly christened Victoria Kins unveiled the 1952-53 senior A season Saturday night at Victoria High School with a blazing match, won by Alberni 54-47 before a smattering of fans.

The season opener, which was anyone's game until Alberni retained possession in the dying minutes, was reminiscent of some of the close battles waged between the two clubs last year and gave promise of great things to come.

Alberni appeared to be in slightly better shape than Kins and were sharper around the basket. But the checking of Victoria kept the visitors' big guns spiked.

CLARK HINES

Johnny Clark, besides leading the scorers with 21 points, kept Alberni's bucket-men, veteran Joe Buchanan and young Dave Mitchell, completely in control. Buchanan could do no more than two foul shots while Mitchell picked up one field goal in the third quarter.

Don Hendry was a source of annoyance to Alberni's playing coach Harry Kermode, limiting the usually high-scoring shotmaker to seven points.

Taking up the slack on the Alberni offence was Al Brown, a former Vancouver Eiler star. The hustling Brown showed a talent for turning stray passes and loose balls into field goals and showed great polish on short shots. He scored 16 points for the night, eight of them in the second quarter to help erase a Victoria lead.

Runner-up to Brown for Alberni was guard John Groholski whose jump shot and keen eye from the foul line paid off in 13 points.

JACKSON PLEASED

Coach Busher Jackson was enthusiastic about the defensive play of his charges and admitted that the attack needed polishing but said that a little more practice would remove the offensive faults.

Kins held a 16-14 lead at the end of the first quarter, a free toss and a hook shot by Clark and field goals by Bob Boyes and Walt Acreman putting them ahead in the last minute.

Brown paced Alberni to a 30-27 half-time lead and Kins hit only two field goals and four foul shots in the third quarter when the visitors stretched their lead to 42-35.

In the senior B preliminary, Butler's Aces shook off a stubborn Chinese Students club to win a 44-41 decision after one period of overtime.

Aces held a commanding 33-25 lead after three-quarters, but the scrappy Students exploded for 12 points in the last quarter while holding Aces to four points to tie the game 37-37. Aces outscored Students 7-4 in the extra quarter to take the verdict.

Students' Bernie Sam led the scorers with 16 points.

Scores follow:

Alberni—Ron Gray, Joe Buchanan 2, Norm Waugh 2, John Groholski 13, Harry Kermode 7, Gordy Lynn 7, Roy Durante 2, Al Brown 16, Don Hill 3, Dave Mitchell 2. Total 54.

Victoria—Howie Tooby 1, Don Hendry 4, John Clark 21, Bob Boyes 4, Elmer Curtis 5, Gerry Parker 4, Bill Bamford 5, Bill Dobbie 1, Walt Acreman 2. Total 47.

Bombers Hand Cougars Third Straight Defeat

Seattle Near W.H.L. Lead; Long, Webster Injured

Seattle 5, Victoria 2
Tacoma 7, Victoria 5

A new threat appeared on the Western Hockey horizon today as Victoria Cougars fell, temporarily at least, into the also eligible class.

Seattle Bombers moved to within one point of Saskatoon Quakers, Vancouver Canucks and the league lead by trouncing the Cougars, 5-2, at Seattle, Sunday afternoon.

Defeat was the third in three nights for the Cougars, who suffered a 7-5 fadeout against Tacoma Rockets, Saturday night.

But more important is the fact that the Cougars may have lost the services of defensemen Stan Long and Don Webster for an indefinite period.

Long was injured in Saturday's game against Tacoma while Webster was hurt and failed to finish out the contest at Seattle, Sunday.

Long has a strained back and Webster a wrenched knee. However, the full extent of their injuries will not be known until the players are examined by the club physician today.

ROYALS, QUAKERS WIN

In other week-end games, New Westminster Royals trimmed Edmonton Flyers, 5-2, while Saskatoon Quakers edged Calgary Stampeders, 4-3, both games being played Saturday.

Seattle soared into a 3-0 lead in the first period over the Cougars and never looked back.

George Pargeter scored the first counter on a 10-footer, Rudy Filion following with his first of two goals before the six-minute mark. George Homenuke tallied the third.

Seattle through Lorne Nadeau made it 4-0 in the second period on a solo break. Jim Fairburn scored before the period's end to snap the Cougar drought. Andy Hebenton tallied the second goal early in the third period, Filion netting his second shortly thereafter.

On Saturday the Cougars held, 3-0, 4-1, and 5-3 leads over Tacoma before succumbing to the Rockets' four-goal onslaught in the final period.

BIG MARGIN

Long, McIntyre and Kilburn scored in the first period as the Cats went out in front by a three-goal margin. Doug Anderson assisted on each marker.

Fairburn and Reg Abbott scored in the second period.

Tacoma held a wide margin on play in the final period as the Cougars reportedly tired.

The game at Seattle was the first meeting between the Bombers and Cougars this year. Each club now has four victories and four defeats. However, Seattle has played two extra games, which they have tied.

At Westminster, the Royals led Edmonton from start to finish, jumping into a 4-1 lead in the first period.

THREE-GOAL RALLY

Saskatoon Quakers were forced to come from behind a two-goal deficit at the end of the second period to edge the Stamps, 4-3.

Trailing 3-1, the Quakers pulled it out on goals by Jackie McLeod, down from the New York Rangers; Carl Kaiser and George Senich, who got the winner with only 25 seconds remaining.

Next league action finds the Cougars, who now are in a fourth-place tie with Calgary and New Westminster, meeting the Canucks at Vancouver, Tuesday night, while New Westminster opens their first prairie swing at Saskatoon against the Quakers.

Seattle Bombers meet the Cougars at Memorial Arena, Friday night.

The two senior C squads will pair off at 9, preceded one hour earlier by McMorrans and Saanichton juvenile boys.

'Biddy' Cagers Win For Saanichton

The "biddy" teams gave Saanichton an even split in Saanich and Suburban Basketball League games at Saanichton Hall Saturday night.

The diapered boys whipped Sooke 22-1, while the girls nipped Brentwood 17-2.

Sooke senior C men tripped Saanichton 43-32 in the featured contest and Sooke bantam boys edged Saanichton 19-14.

SMYTHE WINS PROTEST; RESULT NOT AFFECTED

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday won a protest against the officiating of referee George Gravel at Boston Oct. 16.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League ruled against an official for the first time.

The protest came after a stick-swinging incident between Tod Sloan of the Leafs and Leo Labine of Boston. Sloan received a five-stitch cut. Both men were given match penalties and $100 fines under the "attempt to injure" rule. The Toronto team claimed Labine should have been banished under the more serious "deliberate injury of an opponent" clause because of the injury.

In sustaining the protest Campbell said there were no grounds for further disciplinary action brought out by the hearing.

The upholding of the protest has no effect on the result of the game, which Boston won 2-1.

CIVIL SERVICE IN FIRST LOSS

Legion Takes Soccer Lead

The three-game undefeated streak of Civil Service went a-glimmering and Legion vaulted into first place in the Victoria and District Football Association Sunday at Athletic Park.

The two clubs, both undefeated before the game, presented a sparkling display of wide-open soccer to the crowd. Legion grinding out a 6-3 victory, thanks to a four-goal scoring stint by outside left John Davison.

The win enabled Legion to move into undisputed possession of the league lead, climbing past Civil Service and Heaneys.

SCOTTISH BLANKED

Heaney's moved into a temporary tie for the top rung Saturday when they blanked the winless Canadian Scottish crew 2-0 at Windsor Park.

Davison, brilliant key to Legion's strong attack, scored two goals in each half to offset a hat trick by Service's Ab Travis. John Weldon picked up the other two Legion goals.

Davison got his first counter after only two minutes of play, converting a long cross pass. Travis tied it at the seven-minute mark but Legion blasted home three straight goals before the half, Weldon at 24 minutes, Davison at 27 minutes and Weldon again at 29 minutes.

Davison repeated his first-half feat by scoring after two minutes of the second half to make it 5-1. Civil Service were awarded a penalty shot and Travis picked a corner perfectly. Davison notched his fourth goal at 35 minutes and Travis completed his hat trick at just before the final whistle on a pass from Jack McIntyre.

The defense-minded Heaneys, with only one goal scored on them in four games gave excellent protection to goalie Gordon Harvey, enabling him to rack up his third shutout.

After only three minutes of play, George Coldwell engineered a play that allowed Frank Greatley to break through the Scottish defence and score the only goal necessary for the win. Ralph Shandley added a spare goal after 10 minutes of the second half.

Soldiers Sign Coach, Seek Second Victory

Army's crimson-clad ice warriors will have a new commanding officer tonight when they take on Individual Cleaners in the feature game of the second Commercial Hockey League card at Memorial Arena at 9.

Army, who picked up a startling 4-1 win over defending champion Navy in the league opener last Monday, did so without the services of a coach but tonight they will be pressing Gerry Younger-Lewis into service.

The popular Younger-Lewis is a veteran of commercial action and will be piloting a club that showed a world of opportunism in its initial victory.

The opposition, Dick Irving's Individual Cleaners, will present a stern test to Younger-Lewis' charges. Led by playing coach Fergie McPherson, the cleaners swept to a last-minute 5-4 win over Victoria Merchants Monday night in another upset.

The first game, starting at 7.30, brings together the two victims of the upturned apple carts—Navy and Merchants.

Both clubs failed to show the potent offensive attack that kept them one-two in the standings last year.

GENERAL STAFF WINS

BALTIMORE, Oct. 27 (AP).—General Staff, pride of the racing stable of Larry S. MacPhail, bounced to a front-running victory over One Hiter Saturday in a two-horse Pimlico Special and got back the $25,000 his owner paid for him just three years ago.

VON NIDA TRIMS OLIVER IN PLAYOFF

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 27 (AP) — Australia's open golf champion, Norman Von Nida, beat Ed Oliver of Lemont, Ill., by five strokes Sunday in a playoff for the trophy of the first division of the Ampol tournament.

Von Nida scored par 72 at the Lakes Course, Sydney, where the first division of the £7,000 tournament was played.

Saturday, Von Nida and Oliver tied with a score of 288 for first and second prizes totaling £1,250.

VAMPS LOSE PLAYERS, WIN LEAGUE TITLE

By DENNY BOYD

Tars Fit in Grid Puzzle

Ratings in the Junior Canadian Football League are as mixed up as a Chinese salad today as a result of Saturday's game and two crippled wings.

With only one game left before the two-team playoffs Vampires clinched the league crown Saturday without playing.

Navy and Royal Roads are tied for second with two points each as a result of Navy's smashing 7-0 upset of the cadets before 1,700 marvelling fans at Heywood Avenue.

Navy's sudden emergence from the doldrums was one slap on the ear for the experts but the appearance at the game of Vampires' two star halfbacks Art Dawe and Jimmy Burns, both with arms in slings, made playoff speculation a trifle difficult.

Dawe, spectacular fullback whose heavy running from scrimmage has been the hub of Vampires' attack, broke his hand and wrist Friday night in an accident. Burns, speedy scatback and pass receiver, dislocated his shoulder in Vampires' last game. Both may be finished for the year.

Without these two, Vampires will lose most of their attack. To add to the confusion, Navy, off Saturday's performance, have officially arrived and will be a formidable foe from here on in.

The sailors, although they are still without a touchdown this season, were full value for their 7-0 win as they capitalized on every opportunity, came up with a charging line and took the wraps off a new powerful halfback.

Archie Langston, who had been used exclusively as a defensive line-backer previous to Saturday's game, was inserted at left half in the second quarter and came through like a coach's dream, picking up a total of 45 yards the first two times he carried the ball. He tore through the cadet tacklers like a bull-dozer all the rest of the game.

Navy went into a 2-0 lead in the first quarter when the cadets made the mistake of trying a pitch-out in their own end zone, ball carrier Paul Manson being rouged by Dave Burke. The lead was upped to 3-0 in the second quarter on Doug Brown's single.

Navy almost scored a touchdown in the last minute of the half, Jack Grant dropping Val Reiger's pass in the end zone after crashing into the fence.

In the fourth quarter, Langston got off a long kick from the cadet 50 that went for a single. Later Brown scored the last three points with a perfect 35-yard field goal.

Royal Roads had several golden chances in the last minutes but lost them. They blocked two sailor punts, but were unable to hit pay dirt.

If Vampires win next Saturday's tilt with Royal Roads, the cadets and Navy will have a sudden-death playoff for the second playoff berth.

VICTORIA PRESS 'BRASS' SHINES ON LINKS, TOO

It's probably a nasty thing to say, but "the brass" Sunday won top honors in the first Victoria Press inter-departmental golf tournament at Colwood Golf Club Sunday.

Seth Halton, Colonist publisher, playing to a 36 handicap, won first prize with 40 points, scoring being based on one point for a bogey, two for par, three for a birdie and four for an eagle. Halton scored 110-36—66.

Second place with 39 points went to Victoria Press comptroller Jack Melville with 39 points, followed by Times publisher Stuart Keate, Times sports editor Bill Walker and stereotyper Red Lawson with 32. Keate was awarded third prize.

Melville had low gross of 85.

Tim Matson, president of Victoria Press, presided at the buffet luncheon following the tourney.

LEAGUE LEAD CHANGES HANDS

Royals' Finish Finishes United

New Westminster 3, Victoria 1

They still pay off in finish in the Pacific Coast Soccer League, and finish produces goals.

Victoria United found that out to their horror Saturday afternoon as they bowed in defeat for the first time, New Westminster Royals taking a well-earned 3-1 decision plus the league leadership.

Royals completely dominated play in the first half, pumping all their goals past goalie Bill McAllister of United before 1,500 fans at Athletic Park.

United reversed the territorial advantage in the second half, but could only manage one marker, Wally Milligan scoring shortly after the intermission.

Displaying a smart short-passing game, Royals slowly but definitely took command. Halfback John McKay scored the opening goal when his long drive at the 20-minute mark appeared to catch McAllister flat footed, dipping suddenly past the goalie's outstretched fingers.

Lex Henderson, filling in for absentee Tommy Druce, at centre-forward, raced in alone to score the second counter at 29 minutes and a few minutes later Henderson found the net again with a header for a picture goal on a free kick by left-winger Eric Crossan.

WIND NO HELP

United, who faced a stiff breeze in the first half, found the wind had died down during the intermission, but nevertheless struck quickly after the interval.

John Pickburn put Milligan in the clear and the hobbled centre-forward, who later was to be removed from the game because of an aggravation of his leg injury, had little trouble beating Ken Pears.

United strove valiantly to get back into the game thereafter but found their attack lacking when near the goalmouth.

Though Gogie Stewart was easily the outstanding player on the field, McAllister saved United from a worse fate, especially in the first half.

Twice he took the ball off the feet of Royal forwards and, except for the first goal, could hardly be blamed for the loss, first of the season for United.

Milligan, aided from the field late in the contest, was replaced by newcomer Erwin Michalski.

SHORES, CITY WIN

In other league games, North Shore defeated Vancouver Firefighters 4-3, and Vancouver City edged St. Andrews, 2-1.

Gordie Ion scored two goals for North Shore, Fred Whittaker and Jim Greig each netting one. Merv Maxwell, Dave Bedline and Frank Ambler counted for the firemen.

Tom McHugh and Brian Philley scored for City, Frank Noga for St. Andrews.

United meets St. Andrews at Callister Park this Saturday.

MANTLE DRAFT STATUS DELAYED

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 27 (AP). — The army recruiting station announced today the results of a draft physical for baseball outfielder Mickey Mantle, ace for New York Yankees, have been forwarded to the surgeon-general in Washington.

In the past, when physical examination findings went to the surgeon-general for review, it indicated rejected. Normally, when a draftee passes, the papers are sent to his county draft board.

Mantel, 21-year-old Commerce, Okla., slugger, took his third draft physical Wednesday.

Bays Edge Shawnigan Side

The second division rugby league ushered in its season on Saturday as J.B.A.A. downed a fighting but much lighter Shawnigan Lake School entry, 15-6, and University School smeared a combined Crusader and Wanderer team, 35-0.

At Macdonald Park, Shawnigan Lake exhibited a young and light squad that ran as if their life depended on it and tackled like demons.

John Skillings spearheaded the Bays attack from his scrum half position with a penalty kick and a try in the first half and two almost identical trys in the second half as he plunged 25 yards to paydirt. All his difficult conversion attempts went wide.

Dave Reed scored Shawnigan's first half try from a scramble and Paul Walker completed their scoring when he fell on a loose ball. Bob Abbott was the Oarsmen's other scorer.

At Windsor Park, University School gave notice of their ambitions when their swift and powerful attack netted seven trys, two each by John Turner and John Oxford, and one each by Dick Barker, Pat Crofton and Ronny Sunt. Six conversions were made, one by Barker and the remaining five by John Higgs.

Astound Football Fans by Overcoming Huge Stamp Lead

Everybody said it couldn't happen, but . . .

Edmonton Eskimos astounded the Canadian sports world Saturday night with an almost unbelievable comeback to smash Calgary Stampeders 30-7, wipe out a 19-point first-game deficit and advance to the Western Football Union finals by a 42-38 margin in the home-and-home total-point semifinal series.

The Stamps won the opener 31-12 in a stunning upset.

Montreal Alouettes, the winless wonders of the Big Four union, put the foot back into football Sunday and practically kicked out a 21-18 decision—their first in 10 starts — over the league-leading and not-so-ferocious Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

They did it by the simple method of restoring the almost-forgotten art of kicking—or even trying—placements.

Those were the highlights of a weird and wonderful week-end of senior football in eastern and western Canada.

Nudging these games for attention was the 20-14 triumph Toronto Argonauts ground out over Ottawa Rough Riders, defending Grey Cup champions, at Toronto. The loss just about sent Riders into the also-ran category in Big Four play.

RIDERS VIRTUALLY OUT

Only a combination of fantastic circumstances could send Riders into the union playoffs with the Tiger-Cats who have first place tucked in their hip pockets. They are: A double Rider victory over Hamilton and a double Argonaut loss to the Als in the two remaining games of the schedule.

The Edmonton game, played before a full-house crowd of 16,000, was a tremendous comeback thriller that left the partisan fans a screaming, yelling mob. A touchdown by Vancouver-born Rod Pantages in the last three minutes sent the Stampeders to their dressing-room in disbelief.

Eskimos painstakingly whittled down the huge Calgary lead on five converted touchdowns—two each in the second and third quarters and the game-winning plunge from the one-yard line by Pantages who, ironically enough, helped Calgary to its upset 12-7 Grey Cup victory over Ottawa in 1948.

The Stampeders were leading 38-36 on the series and it appeared that they would hold out the gallant Eskimos to advance into the best-of-three finals against Winnipeg Blue Bombers. Then the Eskimos raced downfield and on the sixth play the one-time Stampeder bulled through centre.

DESPERATE TRY

The Stamps gave it one desperate try. The gun sounded as Davie West missed a long pass from quarter Keith Spaith in the Eskimo end zone. The crowd poured onto the field, was unsuccessful in the old college end-of-game shenanigans of tearing up the goal-posts but practically carried the Eskimos to their dressing-room.

"The officiating stunk the joint out," was Les Lear's comment after the game. The Calgary coach apparently referred to some confusion in the second quarter when the officials gave Calgary the ball in their own territory, ruling that Edmonton captain Rollin Prather was an ineligible receiver on a pass. After a huddle they gave it back to the Eskimos, who scored a major two plays later.

The other senior games went just as the experts figured. Sarnia Imperials won their second straight Ontario Rugby Football Union championship with a 35-0 shutout over Brantford Redskins.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs defeated McGill Redmen 16-9 at London. University of Toronto defeated Queen's 9-1.

CRUSADERS NIP WANDERERS

Bay Winning Streak Goes With Old Shirts

By GEOFFREY CONWAY

Oak Bay Wanderers made two notable changes Saturday when they took the field against Crusaders in the fourth round of the Victoria Rugby Union League play.

Not only did they leave their old sweaters in the dressing room to appear in striking white shirts with blue-banded sleeves but they also discarded their winning ways as they bowed to Crusaders 8-3, their first loss of the year.

In other senior action at Macdonald Park, J.B.A.A. overcame first-half difficulties to down the winless Victoria College 15, 14-0 and thereby move into a tie for top honors with Wanderers.

The Oak Bay-Crusader contest was hardly a minute old when Bays were awarded a penalty kick from the 35-yard line.

Paul Beck elevated his squad into their only lead as he made good on the attempt.

The aroused Knights struck back 10 minutes later when Dave McKenzie dodged 30 yards to score.

Crimson Tide coach-elect Derek Hyde-Lay converted.

Just before the half Hyde-Lay again put his kicking foot to use parting the posts on difficult penalty kick to give the Crusaders an 8-3 half-time lead, which way it remained.

The wide open second-half saw Wanderers threaten often, only to go unrewarded.

SCORELESS WONDERS

In the College-J.B.A.A. contest the scoreless wonders did it again.

The College team spent the whole first-half camping in the J.B.A.A. end of the field but somehow seemed reluctant to cross the line.

The students opened the contest with only 13 players and Bays were quick to take advantage of the resulting confusion as Gary Pynn found an opening right through centre to open the scoring.

Walt Young and Malcom Anderson of College, continually filtered through the Bays' defense with tricky running but the final punch was lacking and halftime mark remained at 3-0.

Further bad luck hit the students in the second-half as their starry fullback, Tom Ward, was forced to leave the field with a dislocated thumb.

Ed Bourke widened the margin for Bays when he dribbled the ball over the line. Pynn easily made the conversion.

TREMENDOUS KICK

The prettiest play of the game came midway through the half when the Bays were awarded a penalty on the 50-yard line. Pynn not only made the attempt good, but he did it with 15 feet to spare.

Pynn completed the scoring 10 minutes later when he drove through centre for 20 yards and a try. The conversion attempt was wide.

'YOU AIN'T SEEN NOTHING YET'

Esks Wild With Joy

EDMONTON, Oct. 27 (CP)—Filchock Esks had won the "big one." That just about describes the atmosphere in Frank Filchock's Edmonton Eskimo dressing room Saturday night after Eskies came from behind to defeat Calgary Stampeders 42-38 in the two-game total point Western Interprovincial Football Union semifinal. Stampeders won the first game 31-12.

"You ain't seen nothing yet," shouted all-star halfback Rollie Miles, who sparkled as a pass-catching, pass-tossing halfback.

Quarterback Claude Arnold, who field-generalled a brilliant game, said: "That was the one to win if we never do a darn thing again."

Coach Filchock was quiet, but a glow of pride seeped through as he said: "I said 30—what was the score—30-7?" He referred to a statement after the first game when he boasted Eskimos could score 30 points and win the series.

While the atmosphere was that of a winning college team, the professional approach was heard.

Said Pete Gosich, a guard: "I just earned me a house tonight."

"You'll never see a better game if you live to be a thousand," said 33-year-old veteran guard Bill Zock, a former Toronto Argo. "Argos were down 9-0 to Winnipeg in the Grey Cup of 1947 and then beat 'em 11-10. . . But this one was a better game than that one."

"We gave it to 'em—then took it away," said fullback Mike King.

Calgary coach Les Lear dropped in, shook Filchock's hand and said: "All the luck Frank—I hope you go all the way."

"It's gonna be a long trip home," someone said in the Calgary dressing room.

Filion in Point Gain; Kilburn Tops Cougars

Seattle's Rudy Filion moved into a third-place tie in the Western Hockey League scoring race Sunday as he picked up two goals in Bombers' 5-2 victory over Victoria Cougars.

Wingy Johnston and Gordy Kerr of Tacoma also fattened their scoring averages, Johnston picking up four points and Kerr two in Rockets' 7-5 rout over the Cats, Saturday.

Colin Kilburn of the Cougars moved into a fourth-place deadlock over the week-end while Jack MacIntyre, Eddie Mazur and Eddie Dorohoy are tied in fifth position.

Still Unbeaten

The league-leading Providence Reds retained their position atop the American Hockey League during the week-end, two victories in as many games being enough to turn the trick.

Providence, unbeaten this season, now has nine points, one more than the second-place St. Louis Flyers who also took their week-end games, defeating Pittsburgh Hornets 4-2 Saturday and Cleveland Barons 6-3 Sunday.

The Reds blanked Syracuse Warriors 2-0 Saturday and defeated the same team 5-2 Sunday.

In the other Sunday game, Hershey Bears outscored Buffalo Bisons 3-1. The Bears dropped a 2-0 decision at Hershey Saturday night.

Stellar Stella Still Shattering Standards

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 28 (AP). Stella Walsh, outstanding woman athlete for 20 years, shattered her own world record in winning the women's west coast Pentathlon championship Saturday.

She got 2,773 points by taking four of the five events and placing second in the fifth. Her former mark of 2,183 was set in winning the United States national title three weeks ago.

Miss Walsh, who is 41 years old, also broke her American 200-metre record. Her time of 23,4 seconds was 2-10 of a second better than the old record.

Miss Walsh also won the 60-metre dash in 7.4, the broad jump with a leap of 5.60 metres, the discuss throw with a toss of 33.18 metres and placed second in the javelin event.

Radio-Television Week Across Canada

Optimistic Industry Sees Big Future Ahead

National Radio and Television Week is being marked all across Canada this week in an era of unprecedented optimism for the industry.

National sponsor for the week is the Radio-Television Manufacturers' Association.

Here in this city, the Victoria Division of the Canadian Association of Radio and Appliance Dealers is sponsoring the week-long event.

Chairman of the division is Jack Willcox.

Other local officers are Herb Sabiston, secretary; David Banfield, vice-chairman; and directors, Murray Scott, Maurice Humber, Wilf Wilson, S. Horner and Alex Ryves.

The Canadian Association, known as C.A.R.A.D., was formed nine years ago to provide radio and appliance dealers with national representation.

The association, serving a billion-dollar industry, is interested in customer satisfaction as well as the need to protect retailers from injurious trade practices and government legislation.

It was felt that the retailer, being the sole link with the consumer, needed a strong national organization to join forces with other segments of the radio and appliance industry to insure acceptance by the public.

'Ghost' Plaguing Reception of TV

Ever since the Seattle TV station commenced operating nearly four years ago Victoria TV reception has been plagued by "the ghost." This "ghost" is caused by a reflection of the TV signal from the Olympic Mountains to the south and creates on the screen of the TV set a second "ghost" image of any subject being televised. In addition to this image a wide vertical bar appears on the screen, the "ghost" of the black left-hand edge of the picture. These "ghosts" can render a TV picture unviewable.

Until very recently the only known method of eliminating this "ghost" required the installation of two TV antennas side by side on the roof of each home. This system of ghost-canceling was developed by two local men, Jack Sims and Art Whitehead, and became the standard antenna installation used in Victoria. Although the two antennas did a satisfactory job of eliminating the "ghost," it left much to be desired.

It was physically impossible in most instances to raise two antennas side by side to the heights required to "capture" the strongest possible TV signal from the air. Furthermore, the installation of two masts and antennas was not appealing from either an economic or aesthetic point of view.

The seemingly impossible task of developing one antenna to eliminate the "ghost" was undertaken last spring by Mr. Whitehead and Mr. Sims who were finally successful in designing an antenna with all the desired characteristics. Produced by Sims Laboratories, the ghost-canceling antenna is now enabling local TV dealers to provide the public with higher TV antenna installations and better reception at lower cost than has ever before been possible.

Nearly Four Million Radios Sold Since War

One of the questions that may well have been asked on a radio quiz program might be "How many radios have been sold in Canada since the end of the Second World War?"

Few radio listeners would guess the approximate number, nearly 4,000,000.

During the war radio manufacturers turned out more than half a billion dollars worth of radio and radar equipment. Today the industry maintains a Committee of Industrial Preparedness in Electronics, ready to co-operate with other industries in civil defense.

The chairman of National Radio and Television Week Committee, lists three distinct radio markets served by the industry, apart from technical developments.

He says they are the connoisseur market, for those who want the best in music reproduction and cabinet work; the mass combination market, for people who want radio and phonographs combined, and the personal market, those who want portables for outdoor use, car radios and clock radios.

He says more Canadian homes now have radios than phones. More than 90 per cent have radio receivers as compared with 50 per cent having telephones.

Canada is not alone in its use and enjoyment of radio. The United States leads the world in numbers of receivers in use but some of the other countries are: Argentina, 2,000,000; Austria, 1,100,000; Denmark, 1,321,000 and Finland, 727,000.

Man Killed in Crash Near Dawson Creek

DAWSON CREEK, Oct. 27 (BUP)—Carl Sloan, 23-year-old Sunset Prairie farmer, was killed Saturday and four other persons were injured when their auto missed a wooden bridge on the John Hart Highway and plunged into Dawson Creek, about half-mile southwest of the town.

His sister, Jean, was flown to Edmonton with a broken leg, hip and severe facial fractures. Taken to Dawson Creek Hospital with various injuries were Bill Marshall and Ronald Mefwyn of Dawson Creek, and Ben Locke of Cherry Creek, Alta.

BROADCASTING BEGAN IN MONTREAL

C.B.C.'s Asst. General Manager Bossed Nation's First Station

Today begins a week-long anniversary of the birth of radio broadcasting in Canada, which this year is linked with the inauguration of Canadian television.

The entire radio and television industry is behind the week, which ends November 1.

First radio transmission in Canada was at Montreal shortly after the First World War, Donald Manson, a young naval veteran, was manager of a station that had no name, no call letters and very little voice.

Mr. Manson, 32 years later, is assistant general manager of the C.B.C. which broadcasts to 14 countries besides Canada.

Despite early predictions that radio would ruin the theatre and sports box offices, it has instead stimulated entertainment and actually increased attendance at sports events.

An idea of the growth of the industry in Canada can be gained from the fact that in 1923 only 9,954 radio receiving licenses were issued. In 1951 the number had grown to 2,250,000.

Here Is the Answer to Your Question—What Makes The Picture Image on Your Television Viewer?

With hundreds of television sets operating in Greater Victoria on an assured basis, thousands of residents are interested in knowing exactly what makes TV tick.

Exactly how, they ask, can an actor's voice and image be carried instantaneously through space to be heard and seen clearly in thousands of homes?

The process may be likened to the function performed by the human eye, according to John D. Campbell, appliance-electronics general manager, Canadian Westinghouse Company Limited.

Let's imagine ourselves as spectators in a Canadian Broadcasting Corporation studio at either Montreal or Toronto. A play is in progress and the camera focuses on the scene.

In this camera is a tube which works something like the human eye. Light from the scene is focused on a sensitized surface in the tube as your eye focuses light on its retina.

The television image falls on millions of electrons of the sensitized surface which, because it is photoelectric, throws off electric charges whenever light strikes it.

Shaded portions of the image produce but little electrical energy on this surface, while lighter portions produce a greater energy.

The potential or "charge" over the photoelectric surface varies exactly as do the gradations of light which form the image.

Thus the electrical image is broken down into some 300,000 parts by scanning. The electrical components of the image are scanned or picked off one by one, just as your eye is scanning this article—a letter or word at a time.

So rapidly does electricity travel—186,000 miles a second—that the scanning takes place almost instantaneously, points out Mr. Campbell. Thirty complete electronic images, or pictures, a second, are released from the tube and transmitted by the television station.

Each image is a single-file parade of electrons that form the same electronic pattern somewhere else.

Between the studio and your home, the visual signal travels by one path, the audio by another, usually going by cable from the studio to the transmitter where it is broadcast.

When the television electrons reach the antenna of your set, the process of reconverting them into the original light impulses resumes.

This is accomplished with a long-stemmed tube shaped like a funnel. It is the cathode ray tube, commonly referred to as a picture tube.

This tube uses the camera tube process in reverse. It receives millions of electrons in the same order as sent from the camera pickup tube.

The electrons enter the receiving tube at its narrow end, where an "electron gun" sprays out a stream of electrons representing the dissected pieces as they left the camera.

Mr. Campbell said, "These electrons shoot from the gun toward the large, flat end of the tube, which is covered with a florescent material."

The nature of this material is such that, when the electrons strike it, a pin point of light appears—a bright dot where they strike with great power, a darker one where they strike with less power.

Coils of wire, carrying electric current, circle the cathode ray tube too. Just as coils create magnetic force to control the scanning in the camera tube, so they control and aim the electrons shot from the gun in the receiving tube.

Synchronized with the scanning in the camera tube, the gun's stream of electrons projects dot after dot, row after row (525 to each picture) on the fluorescent end of the tube so that the picture appearing on your set's screen is identical with the scene in the studio.

West Coast Next in Line For Television Station

On Saturday, September 6 in Montreal and on Monday, September 8 in Toronto, a new era was officially brought to Canadians by the opening of the C.B.C.'s two television centres—CBLT in Toronto and CBFT in Montreal.

Vancouver, with reception reaching to Victoria and southern Vancouver Island, is next on the schedule. However, Victoria already has creditable reception from KING, Seattle.

The station in Toronto—CBLT, on Channel 9—has been broadcasting unscheduled video programs since late August, and has been experimenting with programs on a closed circuit for four months. Montreal has been broadcasting home games of the Montreal baseball team since July.

The Toronto television building contains 916,400 cubic feet and the building occupies a ground area measuring 178 feet by 62 feet. Immediately to the east of the building the permanent transmitter tower rises to a height of 460 feet, topped by an antenna forty feet high. Fifty-six feet square at the base, the tower is constructed of steel sections bolted together, and is the highest structure in Toronto, topping the Bank of Commerce Building by 34 feet.

Surveys were made in both the Toronto and Montreal areas to determine the most suitable locations for the new television buildings and transmitting towers. In Montreal, studio facilities were added to the Radio Canada Building, Dorchester Street, and the transmitting tower was placed on top of Mount Royal. Surveys in Toronto established the fact that the best transmission would originate from the vicinity of the C.B.C.'s radio headquarters, which determined the location of the new building and transmission tower.

To begin with there are the range of programs made possible by the mobile unit, for which the entire cities of Toronto and Montreal can be regarded as the studio. Naturally, sports will feature prominently — football, hockey, baseball, horse-racing, aquatic events — any sporting event on which the mobile unit can train its lenses. There are other possibilities as well: conventions, rallies, sight-seeing or historical programs, and more experimental types of programs, which will highlight local problems of social significance by going right into the streets and homes of the citizens. Where possible, local events of newsworthy value will be captured as well.

Studio shows will run the gamut from hour-and-a-half dramas to popular variety, from quiz shows to discussion panels. There will be singing, dancing, orchestral music, sports round-ups, ballet, interviews, newsreel summaries, children's dramas and puppet shows. The emphasis will lie on Canadian talent and experiment — Canadian technicians and performers. Within a few months many new types of television program may be tried—the end result of experiments which are currently being carried

Radio Effects Everyone

In 32 years, since the beginning of radio as a practical means of communication, the industry has grown to the point where it influences everyone.

During World War I advanced information and news obtained through the newspapers and in many cases events of world importance were not generally known with speed.

Radio broadcasting has probably meant more to farm dwellers in Canada than to any other technical development. Not only does it provide entertainment, educational features and news but it brings many valuable broadcasts on specialized agricultural subjects, including crop and weather reports and production methods.

Radio has also ended the isolation which once characterized farm life in Canada.

People who have lived through the era of the beginning of radio to the present development will appreciate the change that has been brought about in music appreciation.

Radio has brought classical music to those who, in former times, would not have heard symphony music or an opera.

Great service is also contributed by radio to the population in general by the broadcasting of quick warnings of floods, fires and other impending disasters.

Homeless Cats Already Crowd S.P.C.A. Hostel

New cat shelter at the S.P.C.A. animal home on Wilson Street is already full of inmates, S.P.C.A. inspector Ben Maggs said today.

Mr. Maggs said since the shelter was opened Saturday afternoon he has been "deluged" with cats.

"I'm receiving about 15 cats a day," he said. "I don't know what to do with them."

The building, 12 feet by 15 feet inside, can accommodate about 75 cats. It is equipped with cages, sun porches, a sick bay and two special cages for maternity cases. The building cost about $1,500.

About 400 persons visited the cat shelter when it was opened for public inspection Saturday afternoon. Stewart Evans and S.P.C.A. officials were present for the opening of the building.

POINT PLEASANT, W. Va. (UP).—Any port in a storm doesn't go for Willard Call, 13, and Dawson Knapp, 12. When rain came, they ran to their tree house. A lightning bolt damaged the tree, shattering the house and the boys were treated at a hospital for burns.

Hospital Aims To Encourage Nursing Study

DUNCAN, Oct. 27—Directors of King's Daughters Hospital will discuss ways and means of assisting local girls to enter the nursing profession.

G. E. Wellburn, chairman of the board, has asked his colleagues to consider setting up annual scholarships from the local hospital that would give the girls a little extra spending money during their arduous three-year training period.

Lindsay Loutet, director, suggested that the board might well subsidize any local girl who wants to enter a nurses' training school, and should encourage 10 or 12 to start.

The Duncan hospital employs about 30 graduate nurses. At present only five or six local girls are in training, mainly in Victoria hospitals.

JUTLAND AND THE TITANIC

Radio Set Licensing Has Curious History

The necessity to license radio transmitters and, in Canada, radio receivers, has a strange historic background of death at sea and an unusual pact between enemies.

During the great Battle of Jutland in the First World War it was found, at the height of the naval fight, that the British radio and German radio transmission jammed each other. Neither fleet could use their radio systems.

An agreement was reached between the commanders of the two fleets whereby the British would use their transmitters for a certain length of time, and then the Germans would use theirs.

SAFETY MEASURE

After Marconi's successful sending of the letter "S" across the Atlantic by radio—considered by most people to be the real birth of the industry—it was used as a safety measure by ships.

But during the Titanic disaster many ships in the vicinity were unable to copy the distress signals from the sinking vessel because of a difference in radio codes.

Many more lives might have been saved if the codes had been the same. The United States used Morse, and many other countries used the Continental code.

An international conference was called and treaties were drawn up governing the use of radio transmission. Each country then established home laws controling the use of radio and this led to licensing transmitters. Licensing of home receivers in Canada is part of the Radio Act of those times, and has been used as a source of revenue ever since.

Improved Methods of Servicing Constantly Being Sought By Radio Electronic Technicians' Association Members

BY NORMAN TOVEY

Each year, National Radio Week throws a spotlight upon the latest developments in radio and television, and in doing so, brings to the attention of the public the new and handsome product of the leading manufacturers.

All through the year, however, the members of the Radio Electronic Technicians' Association are working towards their aims of greater efficiency and a better understanding with the owners of the receivers they service.

For 24 years this group, originally known as the Associated Radio Technicians of B.C., has striven to improve methods of servicing, the standards of radio technicians, public relations and business ethics.

It is, and has been, hard work for many men who have cheerfully given of their time and energy over a long period, for such a project cannot achieve spectacular results in a short time.

STILL PROGRESSING

Nevertheless, the work has gone on and is still progressing, to the benefit of all concerned, although few of those who started the association (many are still members) could have foreseen the developments which today seem commonplace.

At no time in the history of radio have new ideas been more plentiful than now, and one cannot be surprised that few members of the public realize just how much ground the average radio technician covers in the course of his daily work.

Today, in addition to domestic radio, there are many different applications of electronics, and the radio man has indeed to be a man of many parts.

In his day's work he may be called upon to service receivers, two-way radio telephone equipment, both vehicle and sea-borne, electronic office equipment including the tape recorder—successor to the dictaphone—intercommunication ~~sets, industrial~~ electronic equipment of all kinds, and the twentieth century's greatest contribution to home entertainment, television.

CONSIDERED KEY MAN

In other fields too, the electronic technician is a key man, for it is he who installs and maintains the ever increasing electronic gear without which no ship of the R.C.N. can sail for duty at home or abroad.

Now it must not be thought that all such activities are a regular part of every radio technician's daily round, but nevertheless he must be ready and able to give the service required at a moment's notice.

Small wonder, then, that he must constantly be studying all the latest developments so that his skill will be available when needed.

It is in this connection that the Radio Electronic Technicians' Association can be, and is, most useful. At the regular monthly meetings education takes a prominent place, with lectures, demonstrations and films giving the members a store of information most likely to be of great use in the practice of their profession, and make no mistake—it is a profession.

GONE FOREVER

The days of radio service by the odd-job or fix-it man have gone forever, and today only the man with a high educational standard and electronic aptitude can hope to succeed.

Indeed, it is becoming increasingly difficult to persuade young men to enter electronics—the road to success is too long and hard to appeal but to the few.

We of the association feel, however, that this is a challenge to youth which should not be evaded, but taken up with spirit, and determination, to the ultimate benefit of the electronic world.

In the near future the association is sponsoring demonstrations of television servicing and equipment, carried out by crack technicians from prominent TV manufacturers, and, while accommodation will be limited, any radio and TV technician will be welcomed.

FULL PARTICULARS

Full particulars of these lectures may be obtained from R.E.T.A. secretary G. Douglas Percy at 783 Fort Street, or from any member, while those technicians interested in becoming members of this fast growing organization, may obtain all necessary information from Jack English of Ellison Queale Radio, View Street, Victoria.

In a short while, National Radio Week will be over until next year, but we hope that you will remember that your radio technician will be working hard through the intervening months, keeping himself abreast of all the new developments which arise, so that your confidence in him will be justified, and prove the truth of the words—"You can rely on R.E.T.A.!"

BABY SHARKS

MONCTON, N.B. (CP) — Reports from the St. Joseph area said 23 baby sharks have been caught in one week in the Memramcook River, a tributary of the Petitcodiac. A typical catch was two feet four inches long, just beginning to develop its teeth and fins.

TOWING FIRMS PULL JOBS FOR CAR THIEF

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—Police have named a car thief here "Weary Willie" because they say he is too lazy to do his own stealling. He uses city towing firms to do the job for him.

"Weary Willie" spots a likely car, phones a firm, explains that he has clutch trouble, and asks the firm to tow the car to a quiet suburban street where he picks it up.

WHOLE SUBJECT 'ACADEMIC'

Contentious Color Issue No Longer Riles Makers

The recent announcement to the effect that the U.S. government has relaxed its ban on color television has not created so much as a ripple in the industry. Quite evidently, it will be several years before color TV becomes of any consequence in the States and considerably longer than that in Canada.

The manufacture of color receivers was banned last November by a ruling of the F.C.C. Even though the majority of the industry was opposed, the commission had previously favored the Columbia system which employed a rotating color disc; the system is not fully compatible. Therefore many of the industry leaders feel that nothing much will come of the latest ruling.

For example, Ross Siragusa, president of the Admiral Corporation, Chicago, says that he sees very little, if any, effect from the decision to allow the manufacture of color equipment. W. J. Halligan, president of Hallicrafters, expresses the opinion that the whole subject is pretty academic and will remain so until some suitable all-electronic system is approved.

Another point to consider is the large scale military production in which most U.S. manufacturers are heavily engaged and which must quite obviously block any serious attempt to go into color set production.

Poland Names Solid Communist Government

WASAW, Poland, Oct. 27 (AP)—Almost 100 per cent of the eligible voters turned out for a single-slate election for this Communist-ruled parliament, the press announced today. Some districts reported a 100 per cent turnout Sunday to vote for the national front (Communist) ticket. There were no opposition candidates.

The balloting approved lists of previously selected candidates, 425 sejm (parliament) members and 194 deputy members. They will serve four years. It was the first sejm chosen under Poland's new constitution, adopted three months ago.

VERNON TURNS GARBAGE INTO COMMERCIAL ASSET—FERTILIZER

VERNON, B.C., Oct. 27 (BUP)—Vernon shares with Oakland, Calif., the distinction of turning garbage into a commercial asset.

They are the only two cities on the North American Continent which convert contents of household trashcans into fertilizer.

C. Hopkinson of Vernon transforms garbage from this area into what he claims is a "rich, odorless, organic fertilizer."

Steady users here of Hopkinson's product reported that it causes fruit and vegetables to grow into larger and healthier specimens. They said, also, that by using this fertilizer they have less need for sprays and insecticides.

B.C.'s Civil Servants Close Doors on Press

Employees' Association to Maintain Censorship on Membership Activities

Delegates to the ninth annual meeting of the B.C. Government Employees' Association decided a tight censorship should be maintained on news concerning association business.

Before the convention ended Satuday evening, delegates discussed at length the matter of press relations, and voted down a resolution, sponsored by the Victoria branch, which would have allowed reporters at local branch meetings.

The convention also rejected a resolution proposing that local branches appoint their own press relations officers to handle press releases in their immediate areas. The resolutions committee recommended non-concurrence, claiming an affirmative vote would result in giving the association 42 voices, which might lead to confusion and conflict.

Carl Hauk of New Westminster was re-elected president and W. H. Oliver, Victoria, returned to office at vice-president.

Other officers efected were Ted Ivay, Vancouver, second vice-president, and W. Ellsay, Vancouver, treasurer.

Named to the executive by their respective branches were Peter Barr, Frank Carr, Joan Gower, Victoria; Ted Cook, George Horridge, S. Devitt, Vancouver-New Westminster; Jerry Ritchie, Revelstoke; David Block, Nanaimo; George Truver, Essondale; Larry McPhail, Nelson; J. Holt, Vernon, and S. Deans, Fraser Valley.

Ballet Group Here Next Week

Sugar plum fairies from "Casse Noisette," out of Tschiakowsky's "Nutcracker," will appear in Victoria next week when the National Ballet Company plays at the Royal Theatre Nov. 6 and 7.

BALLET TRAIN HEADS WEST

Cast of 30 to Perform For Art's Lovers Here

Two entirely different programs will be presented by the National Ballet Company on each of the two nights it will play in Victoria.

The company, formed just over a year ago, will be presented by Famous Artists Ltd., on Thursday, Nov. 6 and Friday, Nov. 7, at the Royal Theatre.

The National Ballet is the largest professional Canadian ballet company ever to tour the country. There are 30 dancers and 10 technical people. They travel in two railway cars with a baggage car full of valuable scenery and lighting equipment.

Although the company is comparatively new, its repertoire already compares favorably with most of the large ballet companies of the world. Many classical ballets are being presented on the current tour such as Les Sylphides, Giselle, Coppelia, Casse Noisette, The Nutcracker and Prince Igor.

Canadian choreographers and composers have also combined their talent to produce such ballets as Etude, Ballet Behind Use, Le Pommier and Ballet Composite.

Celia Franca, formerly with the Sadler Wells Ballet Company, is the star and artistic director of National Ballet.

SO HE KILLED HIS WIFE

Detroit Worker Objected To Taking Care of Baby

DETROIT, Oct. 27 (BUP)—A 31-year-old Detroit auto worker says he stabbed his wife to death because she made him get up early in the morning to take care of their baby.

Maurice Parish told police he and his wife, Darlene, aged 24, were awakened at 5 a.m. Sunday by the crying of their two-year-old daughter, Yvonne. He said they argued over which of them was going to get up and feed the baby.

"I was tired and had to go to work but I got up anyway because she wouldn't," Parish was quoted by police. He said the child continued to cry after he fed her and his wife insisted he get up again and take care of her.

"I took all I could stand. She kept nagging and nagging. Then I grabbed her," he was quoted. He said he choked his wife and then stabbed her with a pair of scissors.

Their other two children, Ralph and Lenore, both 4, were asleep at the time. Parish drove all three to his brother's home and then gave himself up to police.

BLOOD BANK LOW, TARGET IS HIGH

Three-Day Drive Planned to Relieve Precarious Hospital Shortage Here

The Victoria Red Cross blood transfusion service has raised its sights for an 800-pint total in a clinic starting Tuesday at Red Cross House, on Fort near Cook.

Ordinarily the service requires 250 pints a day to make the operation profitable. Since the clinic will operate only three days, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, that figure must be exceeded if current needs are to be met.

During recent days the blood bank supplied by the Red Cross has been running precariously low. Hospitals have been borrowing from one another, and in some instances calls have had to be made on sources outside the city.

Members of this community able to contribute to the clinic can do so on any of the next three days between the hours of 1.30 and 4.30 in the afternoon or between 7 and 9.30 in the evening.

HUGE EXPENDITURE

SEATTLE, Oct. 27 (AP)—The United States will spend $10,000,000,000 on its high speed atom bomb striking force, the B-47 and B-52 jet bombers, a Boeing Airplane Company executive said Sunday. Wellwood Beall, Boeing senior vice-president, told a group of visiting San Francisco newspapermen he believed the expenditure to be one of the largest by any nation on a single type weapon.

Sudan Solons 'Jobless' Until Elections

KHARTOUM, The Sedan, Oct. 27 (AP)—The Sudan Legislative Assembly has ceased to exist, it was officially announced today.

Ministers, undersecretaries and the executive council as a whole, however, will carry on until they hand over their duties to their successors after the first Sudanese parliamentary elections, which may be held next month.

Egypt and Britain are at odds over the Sudan, nominally ruled by both countries.

Area Crews Keep Tight Lid on Fires' Threat

By ROY THORSEN

Fire losses in Greater Victoria have been lower this year than last, a survey by the Times shows.

With two months still remaining to complete the picture of the year, Victoria's fire bill to date is $87,535; and half of this amount was accounted for by the $44,000 loss at McCurdy Hosiery, Ltd. mill on Erie Street, June 16.

Last year's total loss was $232,087, including a $166,000 mill blaze on Garbally Road.

"While 'fire prevention week' is over, let's hope the public will remember it is designed to make citizens fire-danger conscious 365 days a year and that they will continue to work to keep the fire loss figures down for the remainder of the year," said Fire Chief Frank Briers of Victoria.

In 25 runs with the resuscitator in 1952 city firemen revived 13 persons. There was one death due to fire. A total of 672 alarms have been answered this year.

OAK BAY RECORD

Oak Bay's damage figure to date is only $600, believed to be a record. There have been 144 alarms, chiefly for grass and chimney fires.

Up to Sunday, Saanich firemen at the three halls had responded to 336 alarms. Damage is estimated at $10,594, but the loss is not half as great as it was a year ago for nearly 11 months. Loss in that period for 337 fires was $24,000, with a total of 109 buildings involved.

Ninety-two houses have been involved so far this year. There were no total losses and no one suffered burns.

"Things are about the same as last year. Nothing excessive in the way of fires, no one injured," Esquimalt firemen reported.

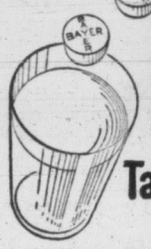
At the First Sign of a COLD



Take 2 Aspirin Tablets with a full glass of water... and feel better FAST!

Here's sound and effective advice about colds.

No matter how you try to stop or shorten a cold, the first thing to do—before you do anything else—is to take Aspirin.

You should do this because a cold is almost invariably accompanied by muscular aches and pains—and a headachy, feverish feeling. And for your own good, you need a medication that will relieve these distressing symptoms—relieve them quickly.

One reason Aspirin tablets bring this relief is that they're ready to go to work with amazing speed . . . actually start disintegrating almost instantly.

So don't experiment with a cold. Use Aspirin. And for sore throats due to colds, gargle 3 times daily with 3 Aspirin tablets dissolved in ½ of a glass of water.

BETWEEN TIMES

By PUNCH ROBERTS

The Old Man is away today, he is in Vancouver, he is there to find out why the Princess Kathleen sank, although any fool should know that she sank because she didn't float.

However, as the Old Man is away, he has told me I have to write Between Times for him, or else he will cut down on my bone allowance, so I guess I will have to write it, although I would rather write one called "Between Trees."

Which reminds me, did you hear the story which went the rounds during the dry spell this summer?

People said it was so dry the trees were following US around.

As for the Old Man being away, I do not mind, except that I worry about him. He will have nobody to take him across the street, and who will take him for his walk?

However, let the Old Man look out for himself. I will now read the paper and tell you what is in the news.

The news says that students at Victoria College believe the world is going ahead, and civilization is advancing.

I am very pleased at this confident attitude on the part of the younger generation, and, as an old dog of eight months, wish to congratulate them.

But what I want to know is, when will civilization advance to the point where someone invents a can of dog food which a dog can open?

The paper says "in the year 1600, rules of etiquette dictated that not more than three fingers may be employed to lift a portion of food from a dish."

I have even better etiquette than that. Why, I never use ANY fingers to get my food off the plate.

The paper also tells me "The red squirrel is equipped with a set of sensitive nerve bristles, which help guide its step."

When I lived in the country, and used to chase red squirrels for exercise, the red squirrels I chased had more than nerve bristles.

They were equipped with radar.

I cannot understand the ladies and what they do to themselves in the name of glamour. A beauty hint in the paper says, "Add glamour to a long rope of pearls by winding them around your neck twice, and then bow-tying the dangling loop with an inch-wide ribbon."

This must be handy for going for walks in Beacon Hill Park, where you have to be on a leash.

If animals treated other animals the way some human beings treated animals, I would be ashamed to be a dog.

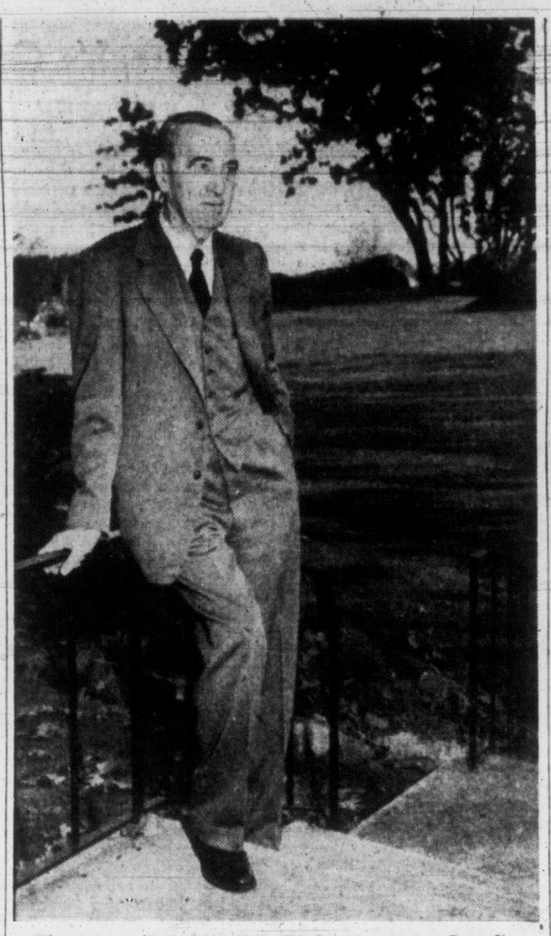
The so-called African Zoo Train which was in Victoria last week and is now touring Vancouver Island made the hackles on my neck rise, and I growled so much when I read about it the Old Man thought there was a burglar under the bed.

What made me maddest is, the law couldn't do anything about the train, because the owners were very careful not to be open to a charge of cruelty.

But if it isn't cruelty to keep freedom-loving animals penned up in cages the size of a suit case, I am not man's best friend.

And, I may add, some men do not deserve a best friend.

Good bye, now. I have to see a dog about a man.



This informal picture of R. W. Mayhew, new Canadian Ambassador to Japan, was taken today as the noted Victorian scanned his beautiful Beach Drive home garden. Mr. and Mrs. Mayhew returned to the city Saturday, and are preparing to leave about Dec. 20 for Japan. The Mayhew's will miss Victoria's famous gardens, but they are going to a country equally famed for its landscaping, miniature and otherwise. (Times Photo by Bill Halkett.)

HOLDS NO PREJUDICE

Ambassador's Mind on Job

Victoria's Robert W. Mayhew will go to his new ambassadorial post in Japan "without prejudice" and intent on doing a job for Canada and far-away neighbor.

On his first visit home since his new appointment, the Canadian ambassador to Japan said he naturally can't readily forget all that happened during the Second World War and Japan's part in it.

"However, I know the Japanese people, and I know they don't expect us to forget. But they do expect us to forgive to the extent that we give them an honest chance to prove sincerity of their intentions, said Mr. Mayhew.

I can't forget that my own son is in the Indian Ocean as a result of the last war.

"But I don't blame the Japanese people who are now trying to make amends for the acts of their war lords. I feel as friendly towards them as anyone, and I go to their country with that thought in mind."

Mr. Mayhew, whose appointment is effective Nov. 15, said he agreed to take the diplomatic post for "not less than one year and not more than two."

He's looking forward to his new position, and said, "It's a long way from the plough handles on an Ontario farm to a diplomatic post in the Far East." (He was born and raised on an Ontario farm.)

"I hope I'm equal to this important post. If I do a good job I'll be serving both countries well," he declared. "Japan has a difficult road ahead."

Mr. Mayhew, a great believer in Wendell Wilkie's "one world" contention, felt the amount of congratulatory messages he received on his new appointment indicates British Columbians are taking more interest in Asia.

"I believe the people here are starting to focus their attention on the possibilities in Asia. Eastern Canadians are looking to Europe. If we in the west want increased trade with Asian countries, we must take an interest in them," he stated.

Victoria's representative in the House of Commons for 17 years admitted, though, that there is "quite a lot of Utopia" in the "one-world" vision.

"But I still think there's good common sense in it. The world can no longer be divided into continents. We are only 40 hours from anywhere on the globe. Times have changed."

Unequal Trade Situation

Mr. Mayhew preferred not to give opinions on trade possibilities with Japan until he has returned from an Ottawa conferenc with external affairs and trade and commerce department officials regarding certain aspects of his new duties.

He will return to Ottawa about November 10, and is tentatively planning to leave, with Mrs. Mayhew, for Japan about December 20—probably by ship from San Francisco.

He said the trade situation with Japan is now one-sided, Japan purchasing in 1951 $73,000,000 worth of good from Canada, and this country buying only $13,000,000 in return. Japan bought mostly lumber, pulp and grain, and Canada mostly silks, toys and cotton goods.

Mr. Mayhew has been in Japan twice. In 1950 he spent some time there while returning from the Colombo conference, and in 1951 he took a prominent role in framing a fisheries treaty between Japan, Canada and the United States.

He said he went among the Japanese fishermen at that time and learned their views during several trips to sea.

"I met many other Japanese in other walks of life, and I feel I have a fairly good understanding of them," he said.

Mr. Mayhew, who started his public life as an Oak Bay councillor, said he will miss his many Victoria friends, "but actually I'm not going to be very far away."

He said he has reminded Mrs. Mayhew they could leave Japan after breakfast Sunday morning, and be in Victoria nearly in time for lunch the same day (because of the time loss).

Mr. Mayhew brought no new word on the possibility of a by-election in Victoria to fill the vacancy caused by his appointment.

He explained the government has six months in which to fill the vacancy, and everything will depend on the date of the general election.

Union Seeking Injunction in Shipyard Vote

An application for an injunction restraining the Labor Relations Board from taking a "membership" vote among shipwrights at Yarrows Ltd. was scheduled to be heard in Supreme Court Chambers this afternoon.

Application was made by United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners (T.L.C.) who claim to have had certification of the shipwrights since 1946.

The board was approached recently by the Shipwrights, Joiners and Wood Caulkers Union Local No. 9 (C.C.L.), which is seeking certification of the 11 men involved.

Fire Crews Radio Routed In Simulated Emergency

Radio controlled civil defense fire-fighting exercises conducted Sunday morning, with seven fire departments taking part, were highly successful. Defense head for this target area, Leonard G. Hatcher, is well pleased.

Simulated attack conditions were announced and the various units proceeded to dispersal points in the area.

Chief Briers stated the test exceeded his expectations.

The exercise was completed in just 20 minutes.

Victoria Fire Chief Frank Briers acted as control officer. From his car he directed trucks from the city, Saanich, Oak Bay, Colwood, View Royal and Langford. Radio-equipped cars assisted trucks without radio.

One or two small weaknesses in equipment were revealed, said Mr. Hatcher, but it was proven that if the Esquimalt trucks and those from the rural volunteer groups had radio equipment the combined fire departments would be sufficient to cope with the gravest emergency.

Response to Appeal Disappoints Chief

Recruiting of 7,000 civil defense wardens required for the Greater Victoria area is disappointing to target area director, Leonard G. Hatcher, he admitted today.

The campaign for a peacetime complement of 700 and an emergency force for wartime of 7,000 was begun last week. The figures for the district were set by Ottawa.

There has been a fairly steady flow of applicants but the present training facilities at the Cormorant Street headquarters are sufficient to handle a great many more, Hatcher said.

One warden's post is needed for every 400 to 500 persons in the city and surrounding area.

Assessment Probe Ordered by Black

Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black today ordered a preliminary inquiry into alleged irregularities in assessment of North Vancouver properties.

Deputy Municipal Affairs Minister B. C. Bracewell will conduct the investigation.

Motorcyclist Cut, Bruised In Collision

R. H. Reeves Victim Of Sunday Crash

Motorcycle rider Ronald H. Reeves, 822 Bay Street, suffered multiple injuries Sunday night when his bike was in collision with a car at Cook and Mason Streets.

Suffering from shock, cuts to the left ear and temple, a torn right hand and bruises to the right knee and leg, his condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today was reported as "satisfactory."

City police traffic constables said the motorcycle was in collision with a car driven by George W. Ludlow, 1150 Pandora, at 10.30 p.m.

Only other accident injury victim during the week-end in Victoria and district was Mrs. Blodwyn Landon, 192 Menzies, who was released from St. Joseph's Hospital after examination for back injuries.

Saanich police said the car she was driving was in collision with one driven by Victor Hoy, 1525 Clawthorpe, at 12.20 a.m. Sunday at Cedar Hill Road and Mount Douglas Crossroad.

About $500 vehicle damage was done.

City police today were checking the records for the registered owner of a car found parked in a badly damaged condition on the south side of Kingston Street between St. Lawrence and Montreal, early Sunday morning.

Police said the car, extensively damaged to the left front, had apparently collided with a telephone pole and then a steel gate to the McKay-Cormack Ltd.

Two Drivers Face Serious Police Charge

Two motorists appeared in city and Saanich police courts today charged with driving while their ability was impaired by alcohol.

William George Willmott, 717 Belton, the city case, pleaded guilty to the charge. He was given a $200 fine, in default 14 days in jail. Magistrate H. C. Hall will make a report to the motor vehicle superintendent in regard to license suspension.

Constable William Reekie said Willmott had driven out of the round-about at Gorge and Douglas into the path traffic would take on Gorge coming into the round-about. He had been unsteady on his feet on getting out of the car, the officer said.

NOT GUILTY PLEA

Victor Hoy appeared in the Saanich court and pleaded not guilty. He was remanded to the regular Saanich court session next Thursday afternoon. Hoy said he wished time to secure counsel.

Saanich police said the car he was driving was in collision with one driven by Mrs. Blodwyn Landon, 192 Menzies, at 12.20 a.m. Sunday, at Cedar Hill Road and Mount Douglas Crossroad. Mrs. Landon was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for an injured back and then released.

City Woman Admits Narcotics Charge

A 28-year-old woman who admitted to R.C.M.P. narcotics investigators that she was a drug addict, was remanded to Friday for sentence in city police court today after pleading guilty to a charge of unlawful possession of a drug, heroin.

Sgt. Reg. Whittaker of the R.C.M.P. narcotics detail, told the court May O'Brien's apartment was visited on the night of Oct. 11. He said Miss O'Brien had produced a hypodermic outfit and that a search of the apartment had resulted in the finding of two capsules of the drug.

"She told me she was an addict. She was not a seller of the drug," witness stated.

Crown Counsel J. Alan Baker told the court Miss O'Brien had three previous convictions for the same offense. Her counsel was W. A. Buchan.

Road, Poll Tax To Be Studied By City Group

Entire question of the road and poll tax—including a suggestion for its abolition—will be studied by a special committee struck by Mayor Claude Harrison, it was learned today.

Included on the committee is Ald. Brent Murdoch, a consistent opponent to both road and poll tax, with special emphasis on the latter.

Ald. Robert Macmillan and Ald. Percy Scurrah are also on the committee.

"I want to see the poll tax abolished this year and the road tax next," said Ald. Murdoch.

EVERY HOUR OF SUNSHINE NOW BOOSTS OCTOBER RECORD HERE

One-half hour after sunrise today a new October sunshine record was established in Victoria.

Previous record, set in 1948, was 166.8 hours for the month. At sunset Sunday the total for this month was 166.4 hours.

"Every hour of sunshine from now on will add to the new record being made," said weatherman William Mackie.

Normal October sunshine total, based on records of the last 37 years, is 136.3 hours.

According to the forecast for today a few more hours will be added to the record. Tonight and Tuesday will be cloudy with clear periods, and temperatures will range between 46 and 56 degrees.

Shipyard Wage Case Before Conciliators

A conciliation board met today to hear the current wage dispute between Yarrows Ltd. and Victoria Machinery Depot, as employers, and Machinists, Fitters and Helpers Union Local No. 3 (C.C.L.) for employees.

The machinists' original request, made when negotiations opened in June, called for a 60-cent hourly wage increase, nine statutory holidays instead of five, two weeks' vacation with pay and other benefits.

Meanwhile 11 T.L.C. union of the Victoria Joint Shipyard Council have to consider separately an offer from both Victoria firms of 7½ cents per hour and half-payment of Medical Services Association premiums.

The offer was explained at a mass meeting of shipyard workers Saturday morning, but the decision to accept or reject must be made by the individual unions.

The council pointed out, however, that the offer was subject to acceptance by all unions. A majority conciliation board recommendation was for a pay increase of 12½ cents.

CITY BANKER'S BALLAD WINS RADIO TOP SPOT

Sonny Bird, 1079 Deal Street, a 38-year-old Bank of Commerce accountant here, has every reason to be whistling at work today a popular type ballad, "When I am So in Love."

Sonny wrote the ballad.

The song stands a chance of becoming a musical hit and will be played for the first time over Canadian Broadcasting Corporation radio station CBU, between 9.30 and 10 tonight. Music publishers in New York are also considering acceptance.

"I certainly got a surprise when I heard that CBU had accepted the song," said the composer, an accountant at the Canadian Bank of Commerce, who looks more like an orchestra leader than a man of figures. "I've been writing music for years but this is the first time I've tried to market any of it."

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S new deputy superintendent of motor vehicles is Ray A. Hadfield of Victoria, formerly senior clerk in charge of the encumberance registry division. He succeeds James Hannah, who retired. Mr. Hadfield, 37, has been with the motor vehicle branch 20 years.

Two Producers Suspended for Watering Milk

Two more milk producers shipping to Victoria have been suspended for watering milk, a milk board spokesman revealed today. Two other producers had recently been suspended on the same charge.

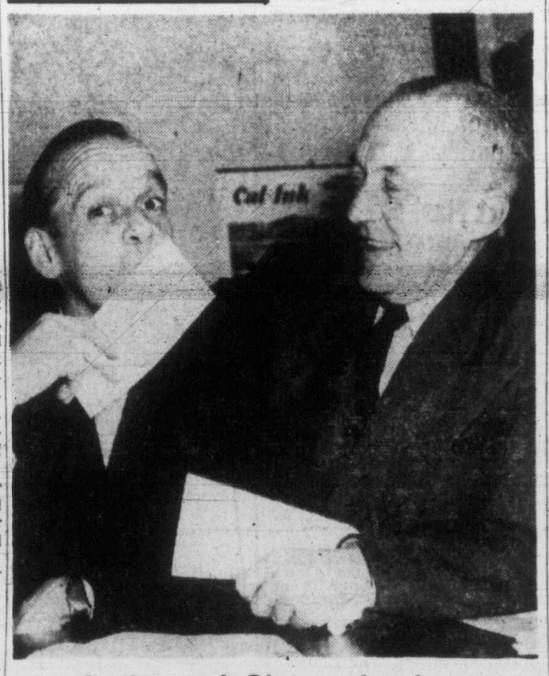
Suspension for an indefinite period usually follows several warnings to offending shippers. If that action proves inadequate, names could be made public and court action taken.

Officials attribute discovery of the four offenders to use of the cryoscope test, initiated about six months ago.

Based on determination of the freezing point of the sample, the test is held to be much more accurate than the formerly-used lactometer method, which directly measured the specific gravity of the milk. Addition of water to milk changes its freezing point, providing a ready measure of adulteration.

Warrant Sworn Out

A warrant for the apprehension of John Moore, about 19, of 2640 Blackwood, was ordered by Magistrate H. C. Hall in city police court today when accused failed to appear on a charge of consuming liquor in a public place, on Yates Street, recently.



Smiles and Cheque for Jerry

Jerry Gosley and his Smile Show troupe had good reason for smiles today. Canadian Legion, B.E.S.L., which is underwriting out-of-pocket expenses of the Victoria entertainers on their trip to Korea to perform for Canadian servicemen, presented them with $2,000 cheque. Presentation was made by Peter G. Barr, legion zone commander (right). Jerry and his group leave next week for war front. They will be away six weeks. The party will include Jerry, Mrs. Irene Henderson, Mrs. Verna Moore and Elmer Denoni. Army provides the show with transportation, accommodation, rations, and pays incidental travelling expenses. The legion is making up the salaries the performers lose by making the trip, and is paying other expenses. (Times Photo.)

Pandora Shop Routine Call Thwarts Raid

A gang of safe robbers was foiled by city policemen at 1.10 this morning just as it was about to make off with a heavy safe from Wellburn's grocery store, 1058 Pandora.

George Wellburn told the Times today the safe contained about $150.

Constables Walter Calwell and John Issac were patrolling the district and checking security of premises when they found the back door was insecure and right next to it the safe, ready to be taken away.

Nothing else in the grocery store had been touched, indicating the burglars had been aiming exclusively at carting off the strong box.

It is believed the thieves were "flushed"—making a hasty exit out the rear door—when the policemen appeared on the scene.

HIDDEN FROM VIEW

The safe had been dragged from under a counter. It had been hidden from view to window-shoppers by a number of orange crates.

On the chance the thieves would return to finish the job, policement took up positions in the blacked-out store until 3.30 a.m., the rear door left unlocked.

In the last few years there have been several incidents in the city where safe robbers have succeeded in carting off safes to a place where they would have plenty of time to break them open in safety.

Police believe that juveniles were responsible for the break-in at a vacant home at 576 Michigan Saturday night. Owner, Mrs. M. Martin, is visiting Alert Bay. Entry had been gained through a front window, but a relation told police she did not believe anything had been stolen.

Plaintiff Guided To Detour Suing Power Commission

A petition of right to sue the B.C. Power Commission for injuries received when a "hot" line fell across his property, has been returned to C. M. Eckert, Dawson Creek, by B.C.'s attorney-general's office with a word of advice.

Whether or not, as the lawyers say, a petition of right lies for a tort, the way is open for Mr. Eckert to seek damages through the courts.

The Electric Power Act states specifically, in Section 99, that notwithstanding the fact the B.C. Power Commission is an agent of the crown, it can sue or be sued like any company.

In other words, a private citizen does not require a fiat before he can sue to recover damages, as Mr. Eckert wants to do. His claim is for $986, plus general damages and costs of the action.

The attorney-general's department, although maintaining petition of right procedure is incorrect, told Mr. Eckert the way of action is still open.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—If a live salmon weighing 10 pounds were thrown into a tank of water would the tank of water weigh more than before the salmon was put in?—C. G. D.

A.—Tank and water would weigh the same. Tank, water and salmon would weigh 10 pounds more.

Q.—What is the origin and significance of the Democratic donkey and the Republican elephant?—R. W. T.

A.—They were created by Thomas Nast, leading U.S. political cartoonist of his generation, in 1874, and in the process of time came to be adopted by the public as symbols of the two parties.

Q.—Why does a Church of England minister refuse to marry a divorced person? Did not a high Church of England man marry the Duke of Windsor to a divorced person?—Mrs. B. K.

A.—The canons of the Church of England expressly forbid clergy marrying divorced persons. The clergyman who married the Duke of Windsor and the former Mrs. Simpson had resigned from his church and the marriage did not take place in a Church of England.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Produce Has Its Ups And Downs This Week!

By PENNY SAVER

I have produce news for you, but I don't think you're going to like it. Unfortunately, the eastern and American demand for apples from the Okanagan has been so great this season that McIntosh and some grades of Delicious apples have been withdrawn from the market to cover the over-all supply. And that's not all. Apple prices are expected to go up because of this situation.

Supply of potatoes is thinning out and price for this vegetable is expected to rise, too.

We won't starve for oranges. They are in good supply and will probably drop in price this week.

This is not the case with onions. The supply is not too plentiful and besides that the price will go up this week.

Local lettuce is over. All lettuce on the stands at the present time is imported from California. Good quality and reasonably priced.

Hothouse tomatoes are expected to rise in price also.

Hi kids! Here's something for you to tell Mum about. She'll be glad to hear it, too.

When I was out on the beat the other day my attention was drawn to a thermos bottle, of all things.

I thought when I first saw it that it looked like something new, so I stopped to investigate.

Sure enough the thermos was a "newcomer."

While it will serve all members of the family it is particularly designed for you to take to school if you carry your lunch.

You see, this particular thermos is made to carry either a refreshing drink or soup. It has a wide mouth and a place for a spoon inside it's plastic cover.

Tell Mum that it is priced at $2.65 and won't rust.

Here I go again talking about ketchup dispensers, but I just couldn't resist telling you about another type I found in a store recently.

It is the plunger type which replaces the cap and has a long plastic tube which fits inside the bottle. You just press the plunger and out comes a regulated amount of ketchup.

It's sanitary and economical. Priced at $1.35. The plunger will fit all standard size ketchup bottles.

WHY GROW OLD?

Good Complexion Vital To Inspire Confidence

I interview specialists in many fields in order to bring you the soundest and yet the most up-to-date information about your problems in beauty. I stay away from the faddists and even from some exciting new information which may prove sound later on, but which conservative, wise physicians discard until it is proven so. Recently I talked with one of America's most distinguished dermatologists.

A woman's complexion has such a great effect on her personal appearance. A beautiful skin can give a glow of beauty to only average features while a blotched complexion can mar the charm of classic ones. The condition of your complexion also affects your personality. A clear skin breeds self-confidence while one which is marred makes us self-conscious.

The two greatest offenders in skin beauty are blackheads and pimples. I have received many letters which said things like this: "I know this sounds silly but blackheads are ruining my life. They look so awful that I am shy and self-conscious and do not mix with groups as I would otherwise. I stay at home as much as possible."

Usually blackheads and pimples make their first appearance with the advent of adolescence. It is important to take care of these conditions at that time for two reasons. First, if they are not allowed to get too strong a hold on the skin they will disappear as the girl or boy grows older. However, if they are neglected, a condition may develop which will prove serious in later years.

Also, teenage is a time of stress and strain and the young man or woman needs all the confidence possible in order to cope with the time of transition from childhood to adulthood. It is likely that blackheads and pimples at teenage may develop personality defects, such as shyness and self-consciousness and a feeling of inferiority, which will linger on all through life.

Perhaps the two most crucial times in life, when being needed and wanted and liked are most important, are at teenage and at middle age.

Much can be done for the improvement of an unattractive complexion. Watch for tomorrow's column which will bring you the advice of a well-qualified skin specialist about home care of blackheads and pimples and the next day's column which will answer many questions you have wondered about.

TODAY'S RECIPE

HOOT OWL PUMPKIN TARTS

Two cups sifted flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅔ cup shortening, 6 tablespoons cold water.

Half cup corn flakes, 1 cup brown sugar, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon ginger, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, 1 egg, slightly beaten, 1⅔ cups (13 oz.) evaporated milk, 2 cup (1 No. 303 can) pumpkin.

Sift together flour and salt. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles corn meal. Add water and stir only until combined. Roll out on lightly floured board to about an eighth of an inch thickness. Line eight three-inch tart pans with pastry.

Crush corn flakes into fine crumbs. Mix with sugar, salt and spices. Add egg, evaporated milk and pumpkin; mix well. Pour into unbaked tart shells. Bake in moderately hot oven (400 degrees F.) 25 to 30 minutes.

Yield: Eight tarts.

Who Should Be Boss Of the Household?

By ELIZABETH B. HURLOCK, Ph.D.

Some men feel a husband should be "boss" of the home. How the wife should handle such a problem is the question facing this wife.

Hurlock

(Q) "I do everything in my power to get along with my husband and keep a happy home. I am 44 and he is 43. He had a very unhappy life at home because his parents were separated. My husband wants things his way. If not, he goes out with his friends and drinks until the early hours of the morning. I have tried to tell him how wrong he is but he tells me he knows what he is doing. He wants everybody to know he is boss. He makes our 14-year-old son and me very unhappy. How does one handle a man like this?"

(A) One does not handle a man like your husband with much success. His unhappy home life during childhood has so distorted his ideals of what a home should be that he is wrecking his own home. And he is giving his son a model of home life and marriage that will make it hard for him to have a happy marriage when he is grown.

If possible, see if your minister can't talk to your husband and show him how he is destroying what should be happy family life. He may also tell your husband that a modern man is not "boss" of the family. Family life today is co-operative living where each member both gives and takes.

Perhaps the minister can persuade your husband to get professional help from a marriage counselor. That would let him see his role as husband and father in a new light. Whether it would make him change, at his age, is another story. A middle-aged man is not likely to change his character materially, unless he sincerely wants to do so.

For the sake of your son, try to keep the home as peaceful and happy as you can, no matter the personal cost. Avoid arguments with your husband and do not try to "correct" him. This will only make things worse.

If you have a personal problem, write Elizabeth Hurlock in care of this newspaper.

Recent Wedding in This City Of Interest in Newfoundland

A wedding of interest in this city as well as in St. John's, Newfoundland, was performed in St. John's Anglican Church recently when Canon George Biddle heard the nuptial vows of Marguerita Allison Fraboni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Fraboni, Sidney, and Arthur Rex Heale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heale, St. John's.

Chrysanthemums and asters with fern decorated the church.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white satin with lace inserts. The molded bodice was styled with sweetheart neckline and lily-point sleeves and was complemented with a pearl and zircon pendant and earrings, gift of the groom. Her veil misted to shoulder length.

Miss Roberta Fraboni was maid of honor for her sister. She chose a mauve gown and carried a colonial bouquet. Miss Jean Fraboni, also a sister of the bride, as bridesmaid, wore a blue sheer gown with lace bodice complemented with a colonial bouquet. Miss Sharon Holland, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Her frock was yellow taffeta and she also carried a colonial bouquet.

Orin Spurr was best man and ushers were Arthur and Ralph Fraboni, brothers of the bride.

At the reception in the Strathcona Hotel, the bride's mother sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. F. Bennett. Reg Hayward Sr. proposed the toast to the bride. The wedding cake was cut with a knife with blade made from a piece of shrapnel and a handle from part of a German airplane.

Upon leaving for her honeymoon in the northern States, the bride wore a two-tone grey suit with red check coat and navy accessories.

The newlyweds will make their home in Victoria.

St. Joseph's Grad Wed At Ceremony in St. John's

Beatrice May Gridley, R.N., a graduate of St. Joseph's Hospital, and Edward Lloyd Griffiths, were united in marriage at a ceremony Saturday evening in St. John's Anglican Church.

Canon George Biddle officiated for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gridley, Gorge Road West, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Griffiths, Collinson Street.

Following a honeymoon on the mainland, the newlyweds will make their home in Penticton.

Frederick Chubb played organ music and during the signing of the register, T. Webb, Duncan, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by G. Eade, the bride was radiant in the traditional white gown fashioned with lace bodice with peplum, and floor-length skirt of sheer all over whispering taffeta. A coronet of orange blosoms held her veil of illusion net and she wore elbow-length lace mitts and carried a white prayer book topped with yellow rosebuds and gardenias tied with white streamers knotted with white heather and yellow rosebuds.

The bride's attendants were Miss Ethel Blenkinsopp, a fellow-graduate, and Miss Amy Moyls of Vancouver, wearing yellow and blue gowns respectively similarly styled in net over taffeta with strapless bodices topped by short bolero jackets of lace fashioned with small collars, short sleeves worn with net mitts, and tiny buttons fastening the front. Their shoulder-length veils matched their gowns and they carried colonial bouquets of pink and white carnations.

The bridegroom had Adrian Voisey of Vancouver, as best man, and ushers were Tom Kirkwood and Bill Stewart, Vancouver.

The reception was held at the bride's home where her mother and the groom's mother welcomed guests with the newly weds. The lace-covered table decorated with pink and white chrysanthemums, was centred with the three tiered square cake bedded in filmy tulle and topped with pink rosebuds.

Going away the bride wore a rust-colored wool dress with brown feather hat and accessories, and a corsage of gardenies and yellow rosebuds.

The wedding of Miss Edythe Forsyth to B. J. Bertram Waller was attended on Saturday evening by several out-of-town guests among whom were Mr. Gordon Hawkins, Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Humphrey, aunt and uncle of the bride from Kamloops; Mrs. J. B. Forsyth, brother of the bride, and Mrs. Forsyth, Ladysmith; Mr. and Mrs. Cleve Stenmark, Duncan; Mrs. Alice Dawkin and Master Len Dawkin, sister and nephew of the groom from Nanaimo.

Perfume That Clings

Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.

—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay with them" is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Liquid Skin Sachet. Available in 3 famous fragrances: Chantilly, Quelques Fleurs, Le Parfum Ideal. Only $2. ***

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"We'll sleep on the top of a mountain tonight," said my friend Jean, when we were traveling the Hope-Princeton Highway a week ago.

So we stocked up with the makings of dinner at Princeton, asked the garage man to suggest a sleeping place and started out to climb the big hill in the late afternoon.

There was half-an-hour when we stopped to gather over-sized pine cones in a grove beside the highway and another space of time when we stood on the edge of the world to watch the sunset touch the Similkameen Valley and the twinkling lights wink in the houses high on Copper Mountain. So it was getting dark when we started the big climb. And it was darker still when we reached the falls with its motor court of the same name. . . . Only we couldn't see any motor court. . . . Just a gasoline pump and a coffee shop.

"Bessie"

"It's down the hill," said the young chap who came out to meet us. "I'll get in the truck and show you the way."

"Down there?" I said looking over the edge of nothing into the tops of tall pine trees.

"Yup!" said the young chap, "Got some pretty nice log cabins down in that grove.

We followed him down a side road through the trees. And as we got below the level of the main highway we saw lights shining from brightly curtained windows in the tiny cabins.

"Electric light?" questioned my friend Jean. . . . "Our own dynamo," said the young chap.

We had a choice of cabins, the red checked gingham curtains . . . the blue stripe . . . or the plain green. We took the red check.

"There's a good sink," said the young chap, "but we haven't got the taps in yet. . . . Water tap is out there about 10 feet or so." He pointed into the darkness.

"Fact is, it's all outside plumbing," he added.

"Good thing we brought a flashlight," I whispered to my friend Jean.

"The cabin is clean," the young chap said . . . it was spotless . . . "we've got comfortable beds" . . . and he was right . . . "good warm bedding" . . . again he was right. Then he added, "Best drain the car, it froze hard last night."

"I think I'd better have an extra blanket," murmured my friend Jean.

"The stove works fine," he concluded. "Here's the damper, there's the draft. Woodbox is full. Goodnight!"

He was off up the hill again in his truck.

My friend Jean and I looked at each other. We could hear the falls roaring away off in the darkness . . . and we could feel the chill of frost in the night air.

Stove Takes Control in Mountain Cabin

"Well! . . ." I said with a shiver, "we best start the fire."

"Here's some paper and kindling in the woodbox," said my friend Jean as she huddled deeper into her coat.

While I watched, she stuffed the paper, a liberal handful of kindling and a few bits of pine wood into the stove and lighted it.

"Now for the food," she said, "and he said drain the car."

As we worked we could hear the kindling cracking in the stove. . . . "Sounds good, doesn't it?" said my friend Jean, "sort of friendly out here in the woods."

When we came back the room was filled with smoke and it was oozing in thick white streams from every crack in the stove.

"What's the matter," coughed my friend Jean. . . . "The draft . . . I gasped. . . . "Where is it?" she sputtered. . . . Here," I said. . . . "That's the damper," she moaned. . . . "Never mind, let's use it." I pleaded as I tried to open my eyes in the stinging mist.

We used the poker . . . we used the draft . . . and we shook the damper. We opened the door and the windows and let the frosty air swish in to try and clear the room. Finally the stove decided it had given us enough of its "smutty" side . . . and it began to draw.

"I think I'll have to have two extra blankets," my friend Jean said through chattering teeth.

We picked up the apples that were rolling all over the floor, retrieved the vegetables from the sink and the camera from under the table where it had been dropped in the confusion. And went back to unload the car.

When we came in again the stove was burning brightly . . . in fact it was red hot . . . and the smoke had disappeared.

The water was soon boiling in the tea kettle, the vegetables were bubbling and the frying pan was ready for the steak we had found in Princeton.

"Getting a bit hot!" said my friend Jean, as she took off her coat. . . . "Sure is," I said as I took off my leather jacket. . . . "Think we'll have to open the windows," said Jean, as she put the steak in the frying pan. . . . "Sure of it," I answered as I removed a sweater. . . . "The place is definitely too hot!" said my friend as she steamed over the stove. . . . "Correct," I said . . . "but we'd better put another stick in the stove or it will go out."

Perspiration was now dripping from our noses.

Just then there was a knock on the door. . . . "Here's your extra blanket," said the nice young chap from up the hill. . . . "My wife says if you need any more just to holler."

"O-h-h-h," said my friend Jean, with a low moan.

But the steak was ready . . . the tea kettle was singing on the stove. So we sat down at the table. And as we looked across at each other . . . my friend Jean and I . . . we began to laugh. . . . It was good to be in a log cabin on top of a mountain with the sound of the falls and the whisper of the pines in our ears . . . and we even liked the "friendly" little wood stove.

Kinch, M. King, Misses B. Cluff, A. Nelson, I. Nelson, E. Schildemeyter, P. Gemmell, D. King, I. Mayert and M. Houliston.

A surprise miscellaneous shower was held at the Heather Street home of Mrs. J. V. Slavin, to honor her daughter, Miss Pat Salvin. A corsage of red roses was presented to the honor guest, pink carnations to her future mother-in-law, Mrs. S. E. Johnson and yellow carnations to her maternal grandmother, Mrs. M. Cox, who is in the city for the wedding next Saturday. A cup and saucer was presented to Mrs. Salvin as a memento. In charge of arrangements were Mesdames C. H. Smith, M. Saltice, E. Marks and J. Grundison. Other guests were Mesdames A. Perry, C. H. Smith, M. MacWhinnie, N. MacWhinnie, J. Murray, W. Crossman, M. Mullins, J. Tippitt, G. Farrell, F. Jarvis, Misses Sally and Carol Slavin and Joyce and Bernice Johnson.

Net and Satin Gown Worn By Bride

An attractive double-ring ceremony, conducted by Rev. J. L. W. McLean in St. Andrews Presbyterian Church on Saturday evening, united Edythe Joyce Forsyth and B. J. Bertram Waller.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Forsyth, 227 Menzies Street; the groom, the son of Mrs. Amy Waller, 566 Bay Street.

Baskets of chrysanthemums flanked the altar forming a floral setting for the bride, who was lovely in an Elizabethan gown of snowy white net over satin, the lace bodice finishing in lilypoint sleeves. A sheer cobweb veil of fingertip - length and cascade bouquet of scarlet roses and stephanotis completed the bridal picture. Accenting her outfit were pearl earrings, gift of the groom. The bride was escorted down the aisle to organ music played by C. C. Warren. Rosettes of chrysanthemums marked guest pews.

Maid of honor, Miss Elaine Farmer, and bridesmaid, Miss Lorna Forsyth, were gowned alike in powder blue strapless gowns, ballerina - length, which were fashioned of lace and net over taffeta. They complemented their ensembles with crescent bouquets of deep rose carnations, caught with blue net and ribbon.

Best man was Arthur Hadfield and ushers, Alvin Lewis and James B. Forsyth.

Wystan Holland proposed the toast to the bride at a reception held later in Lougheed's banquet club. The newlyweds cut a three-tiered wedding cake which was in a setting of autumn flowers.

A classically-styled grey gabardine suit, with white shortie coat and hat en tone, was worn by Mrs. Waller, for her honeymoon trip to be spent motoring up-Island. Her accessories were of navy blue and she wore a corsage of red rosebuds. Upon returning the couple will make their home in Victoria.

A Hearing Aid is priceless

. . . but it is often overpriced!

USUALLY, the more you pay for something you buy, the better the quality. But this is not true when you buy a hearing aid! Prices range from about $85—the price of a Zenith "Regent," "Royal" or "Super Royal"—to $200 or more for other instruments. Zenith believes that no hearing aid need sell for more than $85. Even if Zenith—with its impressive 33-year background in electronics—wanted to build a hearing aid to sell at $150 or $200 or more, we could not manufacture a better instrument or obtain more efficient materials than now go into the $85 Zenith! Yes, only one price, $85; only one quality—Zenith's finest. (Bone Conduction Devices available at moderate extra cost.) Zenith says to you "Hear better or pay nothing" . . . and backs it up with an unconditional, 10-day, money-back guarantee!

Erskine Presbyterian Church Scene of Fall Nuptial Service

A nuptial ceremony uniting Eleanor Isabelle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Smale, Regina Avenue, and Norman S. Dalman, son of Mr. J. Dalman, Riverton, Manitoba, and the late Mrs. Dalman, took place Friday evening in Erskine Presbyterian Church.

The Rev. E. G. Thompson was officiating minister and Mrs. S. Rippon rendered "Because," accompanied on the organ by Mrs. A. Kay, who also played the wedding marches. Baskets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli made an attractive setting.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of white lace with a matching jacket and lace pumps. Her veil cascaded to finger-tip length from a star-shaped coronet. She carried a bouquet of white roses and chrysanthemums.

Miss Louise Smale, sister of the bride was maid-of-honor, wearing yellow net over taffeta in ballerina length, with jacket, slippers and headdress en tone. Miss Ruth Emerson and Miss Irene Smale, another sister of the bride, were similarly costumed in tints of blue and pink, respectively, and carried matching bouquets. Best man was Colin Moir, and ushers were Ted Browett and Allan Davies.

A reception for bridal pair was held at Hampton Hall. Mrs. Smale, mother of the bride, wearing green corded silk with black trim and accessories, and Mrs. Emily Josephson, sister of the groom, in a black suit with red accessories, assisted in receiving guests.

A three-tier wedding cake, topped with pink rosebuds and flanked by white candles, centred the lace-covered table. Toast to the bride was proposed by R. Laing. For a honeymoon on the mainland, Mrs. Dalman donned a grey gabardine suit and matching topcoat with red accessories.

Chapter Marks Founder's Day

Members of Beta Chapter, Nu Phi Mu Sorority, held its annual founder's day banquet recently in Century Room, Monterey Restaurant. New members installed into sorority were Kathleen Collis, Ann Norman and Tanis Monteith.

Following dinner Miss Maureen Quigg, vice-president, introduced and toasted pledges. Miss Frances Appleton entertained with piano selections and Miss Muriel Knight, guest of honor, told of her recent trip to Europe.

During initiation rituals Joyce Menzies sang "My Prayer."

FAIRY TALE SPELL WOVEN

1,000 Children Hear Haddad, Symphony

BY AUDREY ST D. JOHNSON

The heady, scintillating music of Rimsky-Korsakov's "Scheherazade" Suite, played by the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, wove its fairy tale spell within the walls of the Royal Theatre, Sunday afternoon, and a thousand boys and girls from schools of Greater Victoria and vicinity, listened in the profound silence of close attention.

The Suite takes more than half an hour to perform, but following an intermission they were back to give an enthusiastic welcome to guest pianist George Haddad.

And once more, enthralled quiet settled over the auditorium as Haddad, introduced by Hans Gruber, told his youthful audience something of Beethoven's great "Emperor" Concerto, which he and the orchestra were about to perform.

Perhaps it is a little hard to conceive—an exemplary audience of a thousand children; no restlessness, no noise, all interest and appreciation.

But the policy of the Symphony Society and Music Director Gruber, in making these final rehearsal-concerts available to students of all public and private schools in the area, is paying off in terms of a rapidly-growing musical intelligence among tomorrow's citizens. A demand is being created that will assure symphony in Victoria through the years to come.

A striking feature of the Victoria children's symphony concerts, is the fact that, unlike other cities where similar projects are undertaken, simple fare is not specially prepared; the youngsters receive exactly what is offered to adult audiences.

Expressions of appreciation were heard on all sides as the young people poured out of the theatre at the end of the afternoon.

Said Victoria High School's Bill Kinsey: "I enjoyed the season's first concert very much but this one is even better. It's a wonderful opportunity for young people to hear symphony concerts—really the only one we have outside radio: and you don't get many that way either."

Six-year-old Bruce McKean, whose father, R. T. McKean, is treasurer of the Symphony Society, had something to say, too: "The drums were good today," he commented.

So, if you're going to take a tip from the youngsters' enthusiasm, you'd better hurry. There are very, very few tickets left for tonight!

ESSONDALE (BY SPECIAL MESSENGER) OCT. 27: Wandering home Saturday night I began to see Frank Sinatra in a new light. What a guy, I marvelled, reading my Victoria Daily Times. What determination. Imagine, the poor kid no sooner lets himself into his Hollywood home after a tough TV show and he hears his wife Ava Gardner and his old flame Lana Turner "cutting him up."

And this is where I get a new slant on Frankie. Up until I read this in my Times I always thought of him as a skinny guy who has to take an iron pill each time he goes to sing something frail, somewhat of a sissy and the guy I'd least like to be like except for maybe me.

But what does Frankie do when he hears his ever-loving spouse sharing the dirt with his old pal Lana? Does he pretend they're talking about say Mickey Mouse or Fearless Fagan? Does he pretend not to hear? Like many bigger husbands than him have done since Methuselah was a teenager? No siree, not our Frankie. He just walks up to the phone, dials the police, and has his little Ava and Lana tossed right out of his home.

I was still reading and marveling at the fearlessness of "The Voice" when I pushed into my home. The next thing that greets me is the voice of my daughter Robin.

"Mummie, is daddie a jerk?"

My heart swells in gratitude when I hear my wife Peggy say, quite angry. "How many times have I told you not to speak about your father like that."

Then I hear her say: "Ladies simply don't call their fathers a jerk, darling. From now on mummie wants you merely to refer to him as that heel."

And then before I can gather my wits the two of them are cutting me up so fine a single hair'd look like a king-size totem pole in comparison. I nearly lost my head. Then I remembered good old Frankie. I rushed to the phone and dialed the police.

The sergeant looked at Peggy and every now and then would whistle. Without taking his eyes off her he says to me, "So she was cutting you up, bud?"

The second cop, dangling daughter Robin on his knee says, "So the kid here was calling you a heel, eh Mac?

I nod grimly to both of them, "That's it, gentlemen, now . . ."

"And you want them both thrown out of the house is that right?" prompted the sergeant, puckering up his lips to whistle low and soft at Peggy again.

I tried to make it sound like Frankie must have made it sound. "That's right, officer," I roared. "Throw 'em out."

After that things became confused and that's why I've had to write this column from here. Boy, oh boy, but it's hard to type in a straightjacket.

How to argue

If someone tries to pick a quarrel with you, you can: (1) hit him; (2) walk away; (3) start a slam-bang argument and get no place; or (4) follow the advice offered in November Reader's Digest—and chances are you'll make him change his mind.

Stuart Chase, noted author and lecturer, describes a proven technique that will help you win arguments, may pay you dividends in social and business life.

Don't miss "How to argue" in November Reader's Digest. It's just one of 43 articles of lasting interest, condensed from leading magazines, current books.

Caribbean Gales Seen Diminishing

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 27 (AP)—A Caribbean hurricane that ripped across Cuba with 165-mile-an-hour winds appeared to be losing force as it swung eastward in the Atlantic today.

It still was considered a potentially dangerous storm with maximum winds about hurricane force (75 miles an hour) and the Miami weather bureau said shipping in its path should exercise caution.

New York Up Slightly in Light Trade

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—With a great deal of difficulty the stock market today held to a small margin of gain.

Volume dwindled to less than about 1,000,000 shares.

Railroads encouraged the market in a forward movement.

Steels also gained. The American Iron and Steel Institute reported production this week at an estimated 105.9 per cent of capacity and revised last week's production to a record high with operations at 106.9 per cent.

Bell Aircraft displayed one flurry of activity at higher prices after the supreme court allowed the company to collect about $2,250,000 from the government for expenses incurred under war contracts.

Higher stocks included Santa Fe, Paramount Pictures, American Cyanamid, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Goodyear and Distillers Corp.

Canadian stocks were mixed. McIntyre and Distillers Seagram each gained ¼, Hiram Walker advanced ½ and Canadian Pacific gained ⅛. Dome Mines dropped ¼ and International Nickel slipped ⅛.

Toronto Firm

TORONTO, Oct. 27 (CP)—Prices continued firm except for western oils in slow trading today toward the stock market's close.

Volume was expected to reach about 1,500,000 shares.

Manufacturing companies and foods led industrials. Steels also gained. Most other groups were mixed but papers lost strength.

Senior golds held firmly to early gains and junior producers showed many advances as Belleterre and Preston rose. New Hugh traded most actively in a generally firm prospects group, moving more than 36,000 shares with little change in price.

Western oils showed a majority of losses in a list of small price changes as Okalta and Britalta slipped.

Base metals posted many small gains.

Montreal Mixed

MONTREAL, Oct. 27 (CP)—Narrow irregularity marked late dealings today on the stock exchange and curb market.

Small gains held a slight edge over fractional losses. Many issues continued trade unchanged in light volume.

Senior oils, steels and carriers were ahead slightly with Massey-Harris, C.P.R., Husky Oil and Imperial Oil moving higher.

Shawinigan and Brazilian fell to move utilities lower. Papers, beverages and banks remained steady.

Senior metals and miscellaneous industrials were quietly mixed. Consolidated Smelters and Industrial Acceptance improved while International Nickel and Dominion Tar were off.

Western oils and mines were irregular in a five cent range. Light trading saw Altex, Home and Pan Western firm as New Continental, Quebec Oil and Western Homestead dipped. In mines, Ascot, Dome and Western Uranium were better but Fenimore, Carnegie and Arnora Sulphur fell.

Industrial volume was 33,700 shares and mines 131,700.

Vancouver Steady

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27.—Early close. Stock prices were a mixture of moderate gains and losses towards the close of the early session at Vancouver Exchange today.

Investment support for the session centred mostly in the base metals. Oils were weaker. Industrials were mostly unchanged.

Western Uranium, active, finished at $1.60, up 20; Pacific Nickel traded at 90c; Quatsino 56c; Silver Standard $1.42, up 5; Estella 35c.

London Quiet

LONDON, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The week in the stock market opened quiet today with interest concentrated in domestic stocks.

The continued strength of sterling helped gilt-edged issues with gains up to three-eighths.

Buying of industrials was encouraged by the better outlook in the coal situation and engineerings. Textiles were also better.

In foreign bonds, Germans and Japanese were dull.

Oils drifted lower on adverse week-end press comment with Shells losing 1s 3d at 78s 9d.

LONDON, Oct. 27 (AP)—Stock closings: Babcock & Wilcox 71s 9d, Boots Pure Drug 19s 10½d, Canadian Pacific $59, Central Mining £1 19/32, Consolidated Goldfields 43s 1½d, Courtaulds 37s 6d, Hudson's Bay Co. 185s, Imperial Chemical 43s 9d, Imperial Tobacco 55s 7½d, Metal Box 55s 6d, Mexican Eagle 23s 9d, Rand Mines 77s 6d.

Bonds: British 2½s Consols £59⅝, British 3½s War Loans £77 15/16, British Fundings 4s 1960-1990 £97⅝.

Sales, Credit Climb

By BURKE CAHILL, Times Business Editor

Despite continued slackness in the stock markets, Canadian business is getting a powerful boost from the current high level of retail sales.

The mighty rebound in trade since credit curbs were wiped out last spring is evident from the latest survey of installment buying released by the Bank of Canada.

Cahill

Canadians have splurged in "on-the-cuff" buying with total consumer credit up to a new peak of $1,226,000,000, according to the central bank's September summary of current financial trends.

Total credit payments taken on by Canadians have almost doubled in the past four years from the 1948 level of $748,000,000.

Biggest jump in installment financing has been in automobiles. This is reflected in the sharp increase in loans made by finance companies dealing mostly in auto financing. Their credit has climbed to $271,000,000 from $228,000,000 a year ago.

CHARGE ACCOUNTS

Charge accounts in retail stores went up to $397,000,000, a gain of $40,000,000 from $357,000,000 last year. Time purchases in the stores moved ahead to $409,000,000 from $350,000,000.

Personal cash loans, too, are on the rise. These totals refer to borrowing from banks, credit unions or loan companies and show an increase to $420,000,000 from $400,000,000.

Thus the upsurge in retail sales is largely measured by the depth of the plunge into credit. In the first eight months of 1952 retail sales were boosted almost $500,000,000 to the record total of $7,190,500,000 from $6,743,000,000 last year.

Some cautious market observers fear the rise of consumer credit may spell danger for the economy. They think dangerous levels are being approached and this may be reflected in jittery stock markets.

In bad times a big debt for the general public would be a threat for business. If employment were low many installment buyers would find it hard to meet their payments making it tough for the storekeeper to pay his bills and purchase new stocks.

But the optimists see the present job picture, with employment high, as a solid bulwark against difficulties in the near future.

In addition, savings were high, due mainly to the slowdown in purchasing which followed introduction of credit restrictions.

The job picture and level of savings are seen as the safeguard against the Canadian consumer over-extending his credit.

It is also felt that in the event of a business setback at a time when credit volume is high, there remain present curbs on business which could be lifted to stimulate trade. These include restrictions on steel and other materials and regulations in force at present designed to limit non-defense construction.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG, Oct. 27 (CP)—A strong undertone prevailed today through a moderately active session of coarse grain futures trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange.

Commercial demand was modest and firmness was mostly due to light offerings.

Shippers for U.S. interests took deferred months of oats. Domestic shippers bought a small amount of barley. Industrial accounts gave some support in flax, and there was the odd export order. There were indications of recent small business in flax with Belgium.

Rye trade was stimulated by U.S. prices, dry weather in the U.S. and reports that American rye stocks are low.

Overnight export loadings of Canadian wheat included United Kingdom 480,000, Peru 340,000, Eire 250,000 and small parcels to Bolivia and Honduras.

Prices of class two wheat were up ⅞ cent; I.W.A. prices were down ⅛ cent.

Canadian Export Group Hits Raw Materials Sale to U.S.

BY FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

SEIGNIORIY CLUB, Que., Oct. 27 (CP).—Canada, as the United States' best customer, receives "rather poor treatment" from that country, Alex Gray of Toronto, president of the Canadian Exporters' Association, said today.

Addressing the association's annual meeting, he said Canada's trade figures with the United States "are not good." In the first eight months of this year, Canada's purchases from the U.S. were $413,000,000 in excess of her sales there—"the highest deficit in five years, and the sad part is that our exports are largely raw and semi-raw materials and our imports largely highly manufactured goods," M. Gray added:

"This is a situation in which our government could act, if it was not against its policy."

The House of Representatives committee headed by representative Emanuel Celler had been critical of Canadian marketing of newsprint and had charged Canadian manufacturers with monopoly control and price-fixing, "and this congressman would like to reduce U.S. imports of our newsprint."

"We have a surplus of cheese, but U.S. controls do not permit such imports. Our cattle and meat products are still shut out, because of foot and mouth disease, eradicated some months ago.

"Simplification of the Customs Act has still not been acted on by congress, and on top of this is the recent act of the U.S. customs in refusing to permit Canadian copper and brass products to pass through their country in bond, without a U.S. export permit."

Mr. Gray noted that Canadian exports to all countries have increased and said "it would appear that we should continue to expand."

He predicted keener competition ahead.

"Britain, France and other European countries have been receiving defense and Marshall plan aid from the U.S. This will presumably be reduced, and these countries will have to make every effort to export for dollars.

"And, as the U.S. passes the peak in defense spending and U.S. manufacturers receive reduced business as a result of the cut-down in gifts and loans to Europe, they also will have to fight for business.

"The only answer is harder work, increased efficiency, and greater production by Canadians. I am certain Canada can meet the test successfully."

On the Commonwealth market, Mr. Gray said "we must take the long-range view . . .

"We keep hoping and working to have it opened again. But I believe you will have to wait a long time; and, while we should fight for it, in the meantime your energies had better be directed to other markets."

LIVESTOCK

CALGARY, Oct. 27 (CP)—Bidding was not too brisk on sales of mostly stocker and feeder cattle on the Calgary livestock market today. On offer were 500 cattle and calves with a good truck run building up.

Early sales of a few heavy butcher steers indicated a weaker tone, while light butcher steers and heifers were about steady. Very few good cows were offered, with early indications steady to lower, and bulls were steady. Stocker and feeder steers were steady. Veal calves were steady.

Hogs closed steady last week at $23.75, sows at $15.25. Good lambs were steady at $18.50.

Alberta Crude Output Lower

CALGARY, Oct. 26 (CP)—The weekly report of the Petroleum and Natural Gas Conservation Board says crude oil production in Alberta during the week ended Oct. 20 was 200,577 barrels daily.

This is a marked decrease from the near-record daily average of 215,705 barrels during the week ended Oct. 13. Production during the same period last year was 141,676 barrels daily.

Redwater field accounted for most of the decrease, with a daily average of 83,506 barrels, compared with 94,903 barrels the previous week. Leduc production dropped from 59,447 barrels daily to 59,365 barrels.

Acheson produced 6,532 barrels daily, Armena 4,541 and Bonnie Glen 4,538. Production came from 3,451 wells producing or capable of producing, an increase of 13 over the previous week.

BRIDGE LESSON

by Oswald Jacoby

This week I begin a new policy in discussing bidding. From now on I will describe the strength of any hand in terms of the popular 4-3-2-1 point count.

This is not a sudden decision. I have believed in point-count bidding ever since 1935, when Howard Schenken and I presented the Four Aces point count.

Our idea was good, but our timing was wrong. We were 15 years ahead of the millions of bridge players in this country, and it was necessary to wait until they got ready to accept the new idea.

It seems to me that most bridge players are now familiar with the point count, so I can return to that way of describing a hand without worrying about confusing my readers.

Just in case you're not familiar with the general idea, I'll run a few articles to teach it. Count each ace in your hand as 4 points; each king, 3; each queen, 2, and each jack, 1 point.

There are 10 points in each suit, and 40 points in the entire deck. You and your partner usually need 26 points to make a game; 33 points to make a small slam; 37 points to make a grand slam.

Open the bidding with one no-trump when you have balanced distribution, stoppers in at least three suits (better, of course, in all four suits), and a count of 16 to 18 points. For example, take the South hand, shown today. South has a count of 16 points, balanced distribution, and a stopper in each of the four suits.

North raises to game because he has 10 points and knows that the combined count is 26 to 28 points. That should be enough for game and isn't even close to enough for slam.

Good bidding doesn't do away with the need for good play. South must let West hold the first trick with the king of spades. If West is then foolish enough to continue the spades, South has two sure winners in the suit and has time enough to develop the diamonds.

If West shifts to a heart at the second trick (the best defense), declarer must hop right up with dummy's ace of hearts in order to begin the diamonds without delay. West can take his king of diamonds but cannot then prevent declarer from developing nine tricks.

South loses his game contract if he plays a low heart from dummy at the second trick. East takes the king of hearts and switches back to spades, thus setting up West's long suit. Now West will surely get in with the king of diamonds in time to set the contract with the rest of the spades.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

By RAY SIDAWAY

Comedienne Joan Davis will be the guest of Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis, on their N.B.C. radio show Tuesday. The trio present a scene revolving around the Martin Escort Bureau, Miss Davis portrays a girl trying to get a date.

Dean Martin will sing "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," "Oh Marie," and "I'll Always Love You."

A heart-warming comedy, "Thar She Blows," will be presented on "First Nighter," Tuesday, KOMO at 7.35 p.m. Olan Soule and Barbara Luddy are the weekly co-stars of the series.

"Thar She Blows" is the story of wealthy, penny-pinching old Hetty Allan, widow of a sea captain. She is convinced her relatives are too free with her money and is just about to disinherit them when she meets a lovely young girl who changes her mind.

Groucho Marx, star of "You Bet Your Life," is not the kind of comedian who mopes in a corner at parties, frugally saving his sallies for a paying audience. Rather, according to an illustrated article, "Groucho Marxes On," in the current issue of People Today Magazine, the quipster is as glib an ad libber offstage as on.

One of the major pleasures of Groucho's private life, the article points out, is the exchange of wisecracks with his cronies at the Hillcrest Country Club in Los Angeles. As for his radio and television shows, "Contestants bet, if not their lives, their decorum."

Ralph Edwards' zany "creamy peace pie" stunt paid off in great style on "Truth or Consequences," Thursday, Oct. 23, when the "klucking" contestant was identified by a Memphis, Tenn., housewife.

Joe Leone of Los Angeles, the contestant, was sent out after the "Truth or Consequences" program of Oct. 16 on a trip to six cities across the nation. In each city he was escorted to stores and amusement areas—and never once in his full week of traveling was he ever allowed to say more than "Kluck, kluck, kluck."

In Memphis, the last city on his itinerary, he approached Mrs. H. G. Stauber as she was purchasing some costume jewelry in a department store. Leone wearily but hopefully mouthed his oft-repeated "kluck, kluck, kluck" and to his complete amazement the customer looked up and very quickly said "Creamy peach pie!"

The Memphis housewife, mother of three children, received her $1,000 in cash right on the spot.

THE CAINE MUTINY

(Ensign Willis Seward Keith faced a crisis. Posted to the minesweeper U.S.S. Caine he had arrived at Honolulu to find her gone and had been reposted to the officer pool on coding duty, a circumstance he owed to his prowess as an entertainer at the piano with which he had amused an admiral.

(He opens a letter his father had handed to him before he left New York with instructions not to open it until he was on board the Caine. Willie opened the letter, since apparently he was permanently placed at Honolulu, and was horrified to read his father's dying message. A cable home confirmed his father's death three days earlier.

(Shocked, Willie asked to be posted back to the Caine, wherever she was, but was coldly turned down.)

Eighth instalment from the book THE CAINE MUTINY, copyright, 1951, by Herman Wouk. Distributed by Doubleday Syndicate.

But the soreness over his father's death lessened gradually, and Willie began to enjoy Pearl Harbor. His coding duties involved eight hours a day of drudgery in a cement vault underground, and this hardship soothed his conscience. He avoided the girls and the liquor for a couple of weeks, but then the admiral had another party, and Willie got drunk, and soon he was back at the old round. Honolulu was full of easy pleasures.

He continued writing tremendously affectionate letters to May. He had decided that she was not too old to waste a year or two. He might marry her, he might not. But their relationship was too valuable an "experience" to be cut short. May's letters were all that could be desired: long, loving, cheery, and usually containing good news. She was enjoying college, though she felt like a grandmother, she said, among the freshmen. Her marks were high, and the language in her letters improved each month.

The roommates lay on their cots, reading newly arrived mail one sultry July afternoon. Flies buzzed at the screens, though there was no attraction inside the room but the smell of hot dry wood. Keefer lolled on his side, naked except for white shorts, his hairy stomach bulging over the waistband. "Love on a bicycle!" he exclaimed, rising on one elbow. "What's the name of your ship again—Caine, ain't it?"

"Yes," said Willie, absorbed in a letter from May.

"Well listen, boy, I think my brother Tom is on that ship!"

Willie glanced up in surprise.

"I think it's the Caine," said Keefer. "Never can make out my pap's doggone handwriting. Here, how do you read this?"

Willie peered at the word indicated by Keefer's thumb. "Caine, all right."

"Sure enough. They sent him there from communications school. Whaddya know!"

"Fine. It's a lucky break. It'll be like having a relative on board. Does he like the ship?"

"Hell, no. He wrote Pop it's the foulest bucket in the Navy—But that don't mean nothing," he added quickly, seeing Willie wince. "Hell, don't take anything Tom says too serious. Tom's queer as a three-dollar bill. The Caine's probably a great ship if he don't like it."

* * *

It was the first of September when Willie and Keefer staggered into the BOQ at four in the morning, full of hog meat and whisky which they had consumed at a hilarious luau.

Next thing Willie knew, he was being shaken, and a strange voice was whispering loudly, "Keith? Keith? Are you Keith?"

He opened his eyes. Day was just dawning. In the dim light he saw a short, swarthy ensign in shapeless frayed khakis standing over him.

"Yes, I'm Keith."

"Better come along. I'm Paynter, from the Caine."

"The Caine?" Willie sat up. "She's here?"

"Yep. We're shoving off at 0800 to do some target towing. Get your gear together."

"Look, I'll be glad to report aboard, Paynter, but I'm still attached to the officer pool here."

"No, you're not. That's all fixed. We've got a visual despatch detaching you. We've been waiting for you a long time, Keith."

He said it pleasantly, but Willie felt obliged to defend himself. "I did what I could. Missed you by a few hours back in May when you shoved off. They stuck me into the officer pool—"

"Hell, I wouldn't blame you if you never showed up," said Paynter.

"Are we leaving Pearl for good?"

"Why?"

"If we are I'll wake up Roland and say good-bye."

"No. We're not leaving for good. At least not according to orders."

Outside the BOQ in the chill misty morning stood a small grey Navy dump truck. "Not very classy," said Paynter, "but that's all I could get at five in the morning. Pile in."

At the head of steps leading down to the fleet landing the truck pulled up. Paynter honked. Three sailors lying in a half-canopied greasy grey boat alongside the dock rose wearily and mounted the steps. They loaded Willie's gear into the boat while Paynter turned the truck in to a car pool a few yards down the road. The two officers stepped into the boat and sat on cracked black leather seats inside the canopy.

"All right, Meatball, shove off," said Paynter to the coxswain, a fat sailor dressed in amazingly dirty rags, with a pure-white new hat tilted forward almost to his nose.

A bell clanged in Willie's ear and he jumped. His head was no more than an inch from the bell. He shifted to another cushion.

* * *

The boat engineer started up the motor, after several failures which he commented on with filthy epithets delivered in an indifferent monotone. He was perhaps nineteen, small and gaunt, with a face blackened half by stubble and half by grease, and covered with pimples. Long, coarse black hair fell over his tiny squinting eyes. He was addressed by the other sailors as "Horrible."

Willie looked around at the boat. The grey paint was blistering off the wood, and ragged patches showed where new paint had been daubed over old without scraping. Two of the three portholes of the canopy had cardboard in them instead of glass.

"Say, Paynter," he shouted over the racket of the motor, "what duties do you suppose I'll get aboard ship?"

Paynter opened his eyes. "Mine," he said, with a brief, happy smile, and closed them again.

The gig rounded a point of Ford Island and headed into the western channel. At last they came alongside a limp chain ladder hanging over the side of a new destroyer, the outer ship of four in the repair berth. "Let's go," said Paynter, "the Caine's the one inboard of this. The men will bring your gear."

Willie went up the jingling ladder, saluted the smart OOD of the destroyer, and crossed the deck. A tarry plank laid between the ships over four feet of open water led to the Caine. He hung back. Paynter mounted the board, saying, "This way." As he crossed, the Caine rolled and the plank wobbled violently. Paynter jumped off it to the Caine deck.

It occurred to Willie that if Paynter had fallen from the plank he would have been crushed between the two ships. With this picture bright in his mind Willie set foot on the plank and pranced across like a circus acrobat. Halfway, hanging over the open water, he felt the plank heave upward. He leaped for life, and landed on the Caine in the arms of the OOD, staggering him.

"Ho! Don't be so eager," said the OOD. "You don't know what you're jumping into."

"Rabbitt, this is the long-lost Ensign Keith," said Paynter.

"So I gathered." Lieutenant (jg) Rabbitt shook Willie's hand. He was of middle size, with a narrow face and an air of rustic good humor. "Welcome aboard, Keith. Say, Paynter, this Ensign Harding showed up too, half an hour ago."

"All kinds of new blood," said Paynter.

The focus of Willie's mind widened beyond the plank now and took in the quarterdeck of the Caine. It was a place of noise, dirt, bad smells, and thuglike strangers. Half a dozen sailors were clanking at the rusty deck with metal scrapers. Other sailors were walking past, cursing under crates of cabbages on their backs.

"Okay, Keith, you're logged aboard," said Rabbitt. "Paynt, will you take him down to the exec?"

"Sure. Follow me, Keith."

Rebecca Offers Her Jewels

Elizabeth Taylor, as the beautiful Rebecca offers her jewels to the Saxon knight, Ivanhoe (Robert Taylor), as an aid in his fight against the Normans, in this scene from Sir Walter Scott's "Ivanhoe," which opens at the Capitol Theatre Wednesday. The spectacular Technicolor drama has a cast of thousands, headed by the two Taylors, Joan Fontaine, George Sanders and Emlyn Williams.

PUMPKIN CONTEST CLOSE

New Entry in Times' Race In Tie for First Place

Hurry! Hurry! Hurry! Time is running out for all youngsters to enter the Times pumpkin growing contest. If you have a pumpkin that you have grown from seed, just write Times Magazine's Uncle Bob a letter telling all about it.

All entries must be in not later than 5 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 29. Winners will be announced in Saturday's paper.

Approximately 75 children have entered to date, with more expected to make the deadline.

An entry this morning revealed that Patty Johnsen, 466 Vincent Street, is tied for top spot at present with Brian Lamb, 4190 Cedar Hill Road, with pumpkins measuring 66 inches in circumference.

Other entrants with large pumpkins are Sidney Turnbull with one measuring 48 inches around the middle, Robert Mitchell, 52 and one-half inches, Gloria Mobey, 45 inches, Murray Williams, 42 inches and Brian Webb, 58 and one-half inches.

One entry has been received with no name attached. It is written on top of the Uncle Bob Times Club Pumpkin Contest story in Saturday's magazine section and simply says, "My pumpkin is 41 and one-half inches in circumference." The boys or girl that wrote this entry should send his or her name into the Times as soon as possible.

Rain Brings Relief To Dry Australia

MELBOURNE, Oct. 27 (Reuters).—Relief from the drought which has ravaged northern Australia for the last four months arrived in the Alice Springs area this week-end with a three and a half inch rainfall.

The fall was not enough to save the situation but indicated a good spring season ahead, a government official said.

Ranchers now fear heavy rains will flood the area, bogging down weakened cattle, and cause more loss of livestock. No total estimate of drought damage has been reached.

The drought started last April and spread over most of the continent.

Moonrush Wins

SAN MATEO, Calif., Oct. 27 (AP).—Moonrush, veteran campaigner on West Coast tracks, snared his third Bay Meadows Handicap Saturday, outrunning favored Two Lea in the $50,000 mile and a quarter event.

STINGING LEFT

Wilkinson Whips Pride Of Navy

A savage two-fisted attack in the last three rounds carried Bert Wilkinson, Esquimalt middleweight, to a four-round decision over Navy's Wally Rowan in the main event of the Victoria Amateur Boxing Association's card at the Canadian Legion hall Saturday night.

Rowan appeared to have the best of the first round, but Wilkinson unlimbered his stinging left in the last three heats to stagger Rowan repeatedly and take the verdict.

In the semi-main, Alberni's Bernie Hamilton had too much conditioning and ring savvy and scored a second-round T.K.O. over Bobby Thompson in a rugged 112-pound bout.

Other results follow:
Jack Malaneaux beat Ronnie Baggs.
Gordy McGaw and Billy Hamilton drew.
Bruce McLean and Danny Lee drew.
Alan Wright beat Tommy McGaw.
Dickie Tshcrttter beat Tommy Black.
Harry Richardson beat Rusty Gropp.

THE DOCTOR SAYS

Worry Often Cause Of Sleeplessness

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.

The more one worries about sleeping poorly, the worse the situation is likely to become. One reader, who says he is 50 years old, asks if there is any remedy for chronic sleeplessness apart from taking pills.

He says as a rule he does not find it difficult to fall asleep when he goes to bed, but after three or four hours he awakens, and then lies awake for several hours until shortly before it is time to get up, when he feels he would like to fall asleep again.

This is a common form of sleeplessness. There is certainly reason to believe that worry is one of the principle causes of bad sleeping. Actually, there have been some experiments which indicate that any emotion, whether it is pleasurable or the opposite, interferes with normal sleep.

Assuming that this explanation is often correct, one method of dealing with sleeplessness becomes at once apparent.

This is to avoid anything of an exciting nature before going to bed: quarreling, thinking over business affairs, too-exciting movies, radio or television programs, or, in fact, anything which causes an emotional upset.

Many people who complain of insomnia sleep better than they think they do. They may be wakeful for short periods two or three times during the night, but really get all the sleep they need.

Often they make things worse by worrying about not sleeping. This is unnecessary, as most people can get nearly as much rest for the bodily functions by lying quietly and relaxing in bed as they would if they were actually asleep.

The choice of pre-bedtime occupation should be made individually on the basis of personal likes and complete removal from the mental activity which is the major source of worry.

WARM MILK RELAXING

A little warm milk just before going to bed is relaxing and believed helpful for a quiet sleep. There is reason to believe that too-heavy evening meals lead to restless sleeping. Some people can help by training themselves to relax their muscles.

Unfortunately, a great number of people who complain of sleeplessness try various drugs. This tendency to use drugs as an aid in getting to sleep is unwise. The sleep-producing drugs have their place, but most of them are habit forming if taken over long periods of time, and after a while they do not even produce the sleep which is desired. Drugs are a poor substitute for healthy living.

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaya, Oct. 27 (AP)—Six more Communist guerrillas were killed and two wounded by security forces in Malaya Saturday, the government announced. Those killed included Mong Mok Choy, district committee member of Malacca, with 10,000 straits dollars on his head.

100 LUCKY YOUNGSTERS FOR VENEZUELAN PARTY

One hundred children of cardholders who have been receiving foodstuffs from the Surplus Food Stall in the Public Market will be entertained at a birthday party Nov. 7 by a 13-year-old Venezuelan boy.

The party is at the stall, and there will be treats and gifts for every guest.

He is the son of the anonymous donor who gave 300 pounds of turkey and other food to the stall.

Ninety-six families, close to a record number, received foodstuff at Saturday's distribution. Next regular distribution will be Nov. 15.

N.Y. Times Sees Close Vote

NEW YORK, Oct. 27 (AP)—The sixth weekly New York Times presidential campaign survey, published today, indicates a close election with a "last week swing" likely to decide the outcome.

The newspaper bases its reports on correspondents' talks with political leaders, local and state-wide polls and personal surveys.

U.S. Denies U.K. Asked for Talks

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (Reuters) — A state department spokesman today denied press reports that the United States has accepted in principle a British suggestion that the Korean truce talks should be resumed. Press secretary Michael McDermott told a press conference: "There is no basis we know of for such reports. We know of no approach from the British government and of no acceptance on our part."

LEWIS CALLS U.S. COAL STRIKE OFF

Truman Appeal Brings Action

WASHINGTON, Oct. 27 (AP)—John L. Lewis today ordered striking soft coal miners back to work at once.

The chief of the United Mine Workers wired district officers that it was his opinion work should be resumed pending government reconsideration of whether the miners may have a $1.90 a day pay increase which the industry agreed to. The Wage Stabilization Board trimmed the increase to $1.50, holding that a higher boost would violate the government's anti-inflation program.

President Truman had appealed to Lewis is to get the miners back to work.

Truman invited Lewis to the White House Sunday night and made the request.

The industry and the union have jointly appealed the decision of the wage board. Associates of Lewis have made it plain that he expects the full pay raise will be approved in a day or two.

Canadian Korea Casualties Irk

Military Censors Blasted for Not Releasing Name of Unit Engaged

MELBOURNE, Australia, Oct. 27 (Reuters)—The Melbourne Herald today criticized military censors in Korea for preventing identification of the British Commonwealth unit engaged in the battle for Little Gibraltar Hill last week.

Describing the censorship as "over rigid," the Herald said editorially:

"The censorship allows the publication of the news that one company of the British Commonwealth division was practically wiped out, but withholds identification of this company.

"Relatives of every British, Australian and Canadian soldier serving in one of the 50-odd companies of the division are exposed to harrowing anxiety.

"The unit involved must have been identified by the enemy forces and there is no point in withholding the information from our own people."

A North Korean communique claimed heavy western front fighting last week at Little Gibraltar Hill, west of Chorwon, resulted in 230 casualties to the 25th Canadian Brigade. A Canadian Army spokesman said the communique was "grossly exaggerated . . . we haven't got the final figures on the casualties for publication yet, but I am certain they are nowhere near that number."

SEOUL, Korea, Oct. 27 (AP)—Punishing Red artillery fire today drove United States marines off the crest of "The Hook" a few hours after they recaptured the western ridgeline in bitter close-quarter fighting.

A marine officer at the front said the marines pulled back from the crest and forward slopes at 8.55 p.m.

There was no indication whether the Chinese Reds moved up to occupy the high ground.

The Reds earlier had attacked with 2,000 men along a three-mile front.

CITY CLERK HOPPING MAD

East 'Steals' Ballot System

Copyright Information Provided Toronto Council Credited to Aldermen

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

A battle is on between Victoria's city clerk, Frank Hunter and the City of Toronto.

The Toronto Globe and Mail of Friday, carried a photograph of Mr. Hunter's own invention—the Hunter civic ballot system—and said it was "devised by Ald. Grossman and Deputy City Clerk Ed. Norris" of Toronto.

Toronto City Council's legislative committee approved the new composite ballot for civic elections.

"To think the second city of Canada has to stoop so low," declared the usually mild-mannered Mr. Hunter when he saw the "theft" of his work.

"The unmitigated gall of the man to write officially for information—get it completely and then publish and claim credit for it."

He referred to the fact that George A. Weale, Toronto city clerk, wrote last January for full details and got information "worth hundreds of dollars."

Mr. Hunter said he would wire Mayor Allan Lamport of Toronto for "an immediate explanation."

"If necessary, I will take legal steps to protect my copyright."

A Victoria businessman in Toronto sent Mr. Hunter the clipping. While all reference to Victoria was removed, the reproduction of the ballot in the paper, contained all the names of civic candidates in the 1951 December civic elections at Victoria.

Mr. Hunter's revolutionary simplified ballot system has gained recognition across the country. It has been in use here for about 20 years.

B.C. municipalities wishing to use the system have been permitted to do so for free by Mr. Hunter. All they pay is $1 a year necessary to keep the copyright alive.

Toronto itself had some mighty fine things to say about the system which has saved Victoria time and money for years as well as provided the famous "progressive count" on election night.

Mr. Hunter stated a city like Toronto could save thousands of dollars with his system.

"I've no intention of letting Toronto get away with it."

Mr. Hunter is considering bringing the matter to the attention of Mayor Claude Harrison and the City Council.

See where coupla farmers bin charged with waterin' th' milk. Guess th' rain after thet long dry spell wuz too much temptation.

Died Today

W. M. (Billy) Hughes, 88, Australia's Prime Minister in the First World War and only surviving signatory of the treaty of Versailles which sealed the defeat of Germany in that conflict, died today at his home in Sydney, Australia. (See story page 2). C.P. Photo.

Four Probable Suicides in Vancouver

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP)—Four probable suicides were among the six sudden deaths reported to Vancouver police during the week-end.

Alois Sirotney, 67-year-old carpenter, was killed when he plunged 90 feet from the Victoria Drive viaduct. His daughter said the man was unemployed and had been receiving treatment for a bone disorder in both hands.

Peter Paul Maschewsky, 42, was found hanging with a light cord around his neck. Police were told the man had been despondent because his wife, from whom he had been separated, refused to "go back to him."

John Radmaker, 62, was found dead in a woodshed at the rear of his home. Police reported, "nature of illness—suicide."

Victim of a gassing was Robert Miller Estey, 27, an office worker. He was discovered by his parents, who told police he had been "despondent" lately.

A four-month-old boy, Robert Dragan, was found unconscious in his buggy on the porch of his home. He was dead on arrival at hospital. Cause of death was not determined.

Mrs. Elsie Victoria Palmer, 28, of Calgary, was found dead in her bed. She arrived here Thursday to visit her mother, Mrs. E. Embleton, who said her daughter had been visited three times Saturday by a doctor who was unable to determine what her illness was. She died Sunday.

Aorangi Rides Out 80-Mile Gale in Pacific

VANCOUVER, Oct. 27 (CP)—The fringe of a storm churning an area of 1,000,000 square miles in the Pacific Ocean today stabbed at British Columbia's north coast with gale-force winds. Winds of 45 miles an hour were reported in the Queen Charlotte Islands as the storm moved northward. The weather office said there was "every indication" high winds will continue for the next two days.

At 10.30 Sunday night the liner Aorangi reported she was bucking winds of more than 50 miles an hour. Her position was given as nearly 800 miles west of the northern California coast.

The 17,491-ton Aorangi sailed Thursday for Australia with nearly 800 persons aboard.

Mayhew Says Action May Follow Protest

The federal government is considering making a contribution towards construction of a portion of a Vancouver Island west coast road, R. W. Mayhew, M.P., said today on his return from Ottawa.

Mr. Mayhew said he has informed the government that nobody is very satisfied with the government-subsidized boat service carrying the mail.

"I think it would be good business for the federal government to put its money into something permanent like a road. The boat service never will give complete satisfaction," he said.

Because of the Island's growth, Mr. Mayhew said action cannot be postponed too long.

Local Chamber of Commerce officials today greeted Mr. Mayhew's announcement with delight.

They pointed out that members of the Vancouver Island Associated Chambers of Commerce have pressed vigorously for a west coast road and a highway link across the Island to Tofino.

Construction of a road from Sproat Lake to the west coast's magnificent Long Beach is also a major point in the chambers' program.

Chamber officials said that completion of the gap between Jordan River and Port Renfrew also would appear to deserve top priority.

It is believed the most practical and least costly route for the link to Port Renfrew would be to connect up the existing network of logging roads already extending about 12 miles in the direction of the San Juan valley. (See Mayhew Interview, Page 13)

Fans Assured Seattle TV's Future Safe

Otto Brandt, vice-president and general manager of King Broadcasting Co., Seattle, today gave reassuring word to Victoria owners of television sets that there was no danger of station KING-TV having to close.

Mr. Brandt told The Victoria Daily Times the station was "not the least bit concerned" about a threat by U.S. Senator Joseph McCarthy that he intended to apply to the U.S. Federal Communications Commission to have the station's license revoked.

Representatives of two leading television dealers in Victoria said. "That's fine!" when given word of Mr. Brandt's reassurance.

Local dealers estimate about 900 Victoria homes are equipped with television and report that about 30 sets now are being sold monthly in this area. There were only 50 TV sets in Victoria when a survey was made in 1950.

Election Preparedness Asked of Key Liberals

OTTAWA, Oct. 27 (CP)—Key Liberal workers were urged today to embark on "efficient and early" organization in preparation for a federal general election.

The advice was given the advisory council of the National Liberal Federation—the party's high command—by Allan L. Woodrow of Toronto, its acting president, as the council convened in its annual meeting.

The 235-member council is meeting here for two days to review party activities of the last year and draft strategy. It will be followed Wednesday by the biennial meeting of the National Federation of Liberal women.

Prime Minister St. Laurent touched off today's meeting with an address of welcome to the delegates, meeting in closed session.

One of the first items of business of the convention was the adoption of a resolution of "entire confidence" in Mr. St. Laurent and his administration. The resolution also affirmed that the prime minister should continue as party leader through the next election.

In his presidential report, Mr. Woodrow reiterated the prospect of tax cuts to which cabinet members have referred to in the last several weeks.

He said Liberals have a tremendous task in administering plans for improving living standards and at the same time spending heavily on defense.

"This is reflected in the tax rate," he said, "but with a continued increase in national production, one may hope for a reduction in the rate.

"We shall be called upon to defend and hold the well-balanced social gains and have the courage to take new forward steps commensurate with improvements in our economic life.

"That is why I ask you to pass the word along when you go home. Remember a successful election is contingent upon an efficient and early organization.

NANCY HODGES INSPIRES BRITISHERS TO EMIGRATE

NELSON, B.C., Oct. 27 (BUP)—A British family, settling here recently, brought their home along with them, when they packed up to come to Canada.

Leslie Robert Harris, his wife and their two children, of Leicestershire, England, had a trailer in their effects when they hit these shores.

They traveled for three weeks cross-country to the west, via the United States, in their new trailer.

Harris said he was fired with the idea of coming to Canada by a television appearance of Mrs. Nancy Hodges, former British Columbia Legislature Speaker, when she was visiting in England.

Harris is principal of Riodel High School here. Mrs. Harris is a registered nurse.
